NANAIMO JURY GIVES MR. SLOAN $40,000 VERDICT

DEBT SETTLEMENT MAY BE RATIFIED

Much Doubt Prevails as to Action French Parliament Will Take When It Reconvenes for Autumn Session

PREMIER POINCARÉ HAS CHANGED HIS OPINION

Formerly Opposed to Ratification, He Is Said Now to Recognize That It Is Necessary Measure

PARIS, Sept. 28.—A special committee appointed by the Chamber of Deputies to make a report on the Washington debt settlement soon will open its meetings in order to return a report when the Chamber reconvenes toward the end of October. M. Darcis, former Minister of Agriculture and chairman of the committee, is showing great activity in studying the settlement in an endeavor to go through the data furnished by the government as to enable the committee to report as soon as possible after Parliament meets.

Premier Convinced

Considerable doubt prevails as to the sentiment of Parliament on the debt settlements. It is regarded as practically certain that the Washington agreement would have been rejected had a vote been reached before the summer adjournment. Since then, however, Premier Poincaré, who previously had been opposed to ratification, has been converted, because of the unfavorable effect proposed uncertainty as to the foreign debt payment would have on French credit. The Premier, it is said by those in close contact with him, is still of the opinion that ratification must be made concerning the possibility of transferring debt payments, without upsetting the government's arrangement to stabilize the franc.

TEAPOT DOME LEASE TO BE CANCELLED

APPELLATE COURT'S DECISION IS SWEEPING IN EFFECT AND WAKINS COMPANY OFF

Property Involved in Scandal of the Harding Administration May Be Taken Back

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today reversed the decision of the district court at Cheyenne, Wyo., upholding the Teapot Dome oil lease obtained by Harry F. Sinclair and associates from the government while Albert B. Fall was Secretary of the Interior. The appellate court's decision is sweeping in effect, in that it nullifies the lower court's decision to cancel the Mammoth Oil Company's oil lease and enjoins it from further trespassing on government lands. The opinion was received here from William Kenyon, of Fort Dodge, Ia., presiding judge of the appellate court.

GREAT POWERS MAY END CHINA'S CHAOS

COUNTRY OF 400,000,000 PEOPLE IS WITHOUT NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

United States Policy Said to Arouse Anarchic Conditions

SHANGHAI, Sept. 28.—Four hundred million Chinese, who are without a president, and their Republic without the semblance of national government, must await the outcome of the hostilities of the civil war on the Yangtze river to decide the fate of China, and whether foreign powers will interfere to restore order. It is increasingly apparent that Britain, Germany and Japan, growing restless over their helplessness to prevent the continuous firing by Chinese troops on foreign vessels on the Yangtze, invasion of foreign concessions and the capturing and killing of missionaries. The policy of the United States alone restrains the powers from taking action. Some believe that were it not for the United States, China would experience partition by European powers, such as happened toward the end of the last century, when France, Germany, Great Britain, Japan and Italy obtained "spheres of influence." Alarmed lest an overt act, like the killing of British naval officers at Wanchow on September 5, might recur and precipitate the landing of large forces of foreign troops, the military leaders are hastening to bring the civil war to an end.

Refugees Arrive

Thirty foreigners, mostly women and children, arrived at Ichang today from Chungking, where all foreigners fled in haste to avoid the immediate danger from Chinese bandits after an outbreak Saturday. Another band of refugees went to Hankow.

In the whole Province of Szechuan a foreign feeling has reached a dangerous height. The Mission boys' school of the Friends' Foreign Mission Association at Chungking has been looted and the Chinese headmaster beaten. Alfred Davidson and Miss Irene Hutchings escaped and fled down the river to the larger settlements.

NEW TYPE CARGO SHIPS WILL RUN ON ATLANTIC

Five New Steamers Will Give Canadian Perishable Goods Best Service From Continent

CALGARY, Sept. 28.—There is no doubt that the British people are looking to Canada as a place for settlement and the British government is anxious to facilitate that as much as possible. Mr. H. H. Brown, European manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, "It appears to me as a Canadian that Canada should be as ready as they are in Britain to build up such a movement," he said. "I realize," he added, "that with Canada's enormous requirements it is not possible to secure all the desirable new settlers we need from Great Britain, because she cannot supply them and we must, therefore, draw to some extent from the desirable Nordic races of Europe."

Mr. Brown spoke of the wonderful improvement he had seen at Victoria and Vancouver and the great development generally in the West compared to what he knew of the country thirty years ago.

New Steamers

Referring to the Atlantic steamship service, he stated, it was probably known that the president of the company, Mr. Beatty, had recently placed a very large order in Great Britain for the construction of two very modern passenger steamers, some 10,000 tons each, to ply between Great Britain and Canadian ports.

In addition, he had placed contracts for five fast up-to-date cargo steamers which he had decided to operate in the regular service between the United Kingdom and Canadian ports. Those boats would provide the best cargo service on the Atlantic, for Canadian perishable goods such as dairy products, and at the same time provide plenty of space for the carriage of grain. A service of that kind had been much needed and it had fallen to the president to realize that and provide for it. In addition to that, the new steamer, Empress of Australia, which had recently operated on the Pacific service, had been transferred to Britain, and after certain improvements, giving increased speed, would be operating in the Atlantic fleet.

VANCOUVER FINDS HOLIDAY PROBLEM

In Enforcing Half-Holiday Act, Difficulty Is Found in Providing That Wednesday Closing Is Provided For

CHOICE OF SATURDAY WAS FIRST INTENTION

That Went on Provincial Records, But Change Was Made Later On, and Legal Proof May Be Troublesome

VANCOUVER, Sept. 28.—Those who would prosecute offenders under the Half-Holiday Act are faced by a difficult problem in proving legally that Vancouver has Wednesday as its specified holiday. To date no solution has been found in police courts has been presented.

Shopkeepers, charged under the act, who pleaded guilty have simplified the prosecution, but today a number pleaded not guilty, and the problem of proving that Wednesday was the legal holiday arose. The act specifies that each municipality and city must have a half holiday, but the matter of selecting the day is left to the individual council. When the act first became effective, Saturday was the day chosen by Vancouver, and this selection went on the provincial records. Later, a change to Wednesday was made, but to prove this change might involve proving everything from the existence of a legislature to the day selected. Scores of witnesses from Victoria and Vancouver might be needed.

A solution suggested by the police is the passage of a city-by-law making Wednesday the legal day. To date no action has been taken, and in the meantime the city prosecutors are seeking a simple method of proving, legally, that Wednesday is the official half-holiday.

MAY NOT HOLD ASSIZES HERE

LIGHT CALENDAR LIKELY TO RENDER COURT SESSION IN VICTORIA UNNECESSARY

Defendants in Two Cases Probably Will Elect for Speedy Trial Before County Court Judge

In all probability, Victoria this year will have a Fall criminal assizes this year. Tuesday, October 12, was gazetted as the date for the opening of the Fall criminal assizes in the County of Victoria, but owing to the light calendar, and the likelihood of defendants electing for speedy trial in county court, it now appears that no session of the assize court will be held here.

If the assize court does not convene here next month, it will be the first time for several years that scheduled assizes have not taken place in Victoria.

There are two cases pending for the assizes, but electing of speedy trial before a county court judge, which seems likely to occur, will render the holding of an assize court unnecessary, unless something unforeseen should happen in either case.

The assizes for criminal cases commenced in Vancouver yesterday, and the Sloan-McRae libel action commenced the opening of the Nanaimo assizes on Monday last.

The dates for the sittings of assize courts in other parts of the province are as follows: Victoria, October 12, criminal and civil; Cranbrook, October 26, civil; Fernie, November 2, criminal and civil; Kamloops, November 9, criminal and civil; New Westminster, November 9, criminal; Prince Rupert, November 10, criminal and civil; Vernon, November 16, criminal and civil; Prince George, November 17, criminal and civil; Revelstoke, November 23, criminal and civil.

TO OFFER EIGHTEEN THOUSAND POPPIES

ARMISTICE DAY COMMITTEE DECIDES TO HOLD POPPY DAY ON NOVEMBER 8

Memorial Service Will Be Held in Royal Victoria Theatre on Sunday, November 7

Eighteen thousand poppies have been ordered for "Poppy Day," which will be held on Saturday, November 6, it was announced following the meeting of the Armistice Period Committee last night. The memorial service was decided to be held in the Royal Victoria Theatre on Sunday afternoon, November 7.

Associations represented at last night's meeting were the Army and Navy Veterans, British Campaigners, and the Canadian Legion, Naval and Britannia Post branches of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League.

Discussion was held regarding the verbal request of the district council of the Canadian Legion of the B.E. L. to take over from the Armistice period committee the distribution of poppies in Victoria on "Poppy Day." Some of the delegates expressed the opinion that it would be advisable for the Armistice period committee to carry on as they did in past years and distribute the poppies and arrange for the memorial service.

The secretary reported the amount of $100 on hand and all accounts paid up to the end of August. Another meeting of the Armistice period committee will take place next Tuesday evening, when final arrangements will be made for the celebration of the Armistice period.

HOUSE OF COMMONS VOTES TO CONTINUE EMERGENCY POWERS

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The House of Commons voted today to continue the coal strike emergency powers regulations for another month. The vote was 194 to 89.

The House also voted to adjourn at the end of tonight's session until November 1, whereupon Mr. Vernon Bartlett, Labour and former member of the National executive of the Miners' Federation, took the floor and began an hour-long discussion of the coal situation.

No new avenues which might lead to a settlement of the long-standing strike were opened, however, and the House adjourned.

Great Swarm of Locusts Poison Fish in Lake

LONDON, Managua, Sept. 28.—The shores of Lake Managua were covered today with the bodies of fish, apparently poisoned by eating locusts which fell into the water from an immense swarm that flew over the lake yesterday. The military department has protested sale of fish. The swarm was an great when it passed over this city that the sky was darkened for eighteen minutes.

Salvation Army Head Will Arrive Tomorrow

He will reach Vancouver on the western coast of the main tomorrow morning in time to make connections with the outgoing steamer.

NOVA SCOTIA IS RATHER HEROIC

Atlantic Province Spends One-Half Its Total Revenue Upon Construction and Maintenance of Highways

GRAVELLED MILEAGE IN MANITOBA IS EXTENSIVE

Postage Stamp Province Has Twenty Thousand Miles of Highway, of Which Sixteen Hundred Are Gravelled

EDMONTON, Sept. 28.—More than 100 delegates representing the governments, highway commissioners and provincial road organizations in the nine provinces of the Dominion, registered today as attending the thirtieth annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association here.

Addresses of welcome were given by Lieutenant-Governor Esbert, Premier of Nova Scotia, and other representatives of the city and province, these being followed by replies from outstanding delegates from other sections of the Dominion.

Discussing what Alberta has done in the matter of good roads improvement, Lieutenant-Governor Esbert pointed out that it is expected some 500 miles of gravelled roads will have been completed in this province by the end of 1927.

Federal Grant Earned

More than $3,000,000 has been spent on roads in Alberta within the last three years and $1,100,000 of the Federal highway grant earned. The province is expected to wind up the present year with 1,000 miles of improved roads and 360 miles of gravelled highways built.

Manitoba has 70,000 miles of road allowance, of which 20,000 miles are already in use, said Hon. John Bracken, Premier of the province. The province has a total of having expended some $12,000,000 on highway construction, devotes the whole of its revenue from auto licences and gasoline tax to the building and maintenance of highways, he said. There are some 1,600 miles of gravelled roads without the boundaries of Manitoba.

MR. SCHWENGERS WILL ATTEND CONVENTION

President of Chamber of Commerce Expected to Go East on City Business

It seems highly probable now that the city will be represented at the convention of the Chamber of Commerce and the City of Victoria requiring the attendance of Mr. C. P. Schwengers, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and that there has been no interference with British trade at Hankow, despite recent agitation.

The Prime Minister said that reinforcements are now being sent to China to render the naval forces in the Far East sufficient to protect British subjects and interests. Mr. Schwengers will be accompanied by Mr. Robb, Minister of Finance, and Mr. King, Minister of Justice.

On Saturday of this week, practically the entire Cabinet will be in Quebec City to welcome Lord Willingdon to Canada. His Excellency will be sworn in at the ancient capital by Chief Justice Anglin, of the Supreme Court. On Monday, Parliament Hill, Ottawa, will be brilliant with flags and troops to receive the new Governor-General.

Prince of Wales Is Behind Dinner List And Has Called Halt

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The Prince of Wales is so far behind on his dinner engagements that he has called a halt on further invitations until he can catch up. His private secretary has announced that he must decline all invitations except to functions of a national or imperial character.

FIVE-HOUR SESSION OF CABINET COUNCIL HELD

But No Information Is Given Out as to What It Decided or Failed to Agree Upon

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—A five-hour session of the Cabinet council today failed to produce any definite news concerning the several questions before the government. Premier King told a group of newspapermen that so far as he knew the two additional judges who are to make up the Customs inquiry commission were not appointed. When asked if an order-in-council had been passed regarding the inquiry, he replied, "No."

It is now probable that Mr. King and his party will leave for the Imperial Conference from Quebec on October 8 or 9.

Mr. Robb Will Be Acting Premier

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, will accompany Mr. King, but it is not known yet who else will go. Hon. James Robb, Minister of Finance, will be acting Premier during the several weeks' absence of Mr. King.

On Saturday of this week, practically the entire Cabinet will be in Quebec City to welcome Lord Willingdon to Canada. His Excellency will be sworn in at the ancient capital by Chief Justice Anglin, of the Supreme Court. On Monday, Parliament Hill, Ottawa, will be brilliant with flags and troops to receive the new Governor-General.

Decision Is Given in Sloan vs. McRae Suit In Favor of Plaintiff

Jury Finds That Statement Published in Campaign Paper, Alleging Payment of Fifty Thousand Dollars to Mr. Sloan by Pacific Great Eastern Promoters Makes Gen. McRae Liable for Damages

No Statement Yet Given as to Whether Appeal Will Be Made to Higher Court

NANAIMO, B. C., Sept. 28.—A special jury, in assize court this evening, awarded Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines for British Columbia, plaintiff in a libel action against Major General A. D. McRae, $40,000 damages.

Hon. Mr. Sloan sought $50,000 damages from the former leader of the Provincial party on the ground that he had been libelled in an article that appeared in "The Searchlight," an election publication issued during the Provincial campaign in January, 1924, under the heading, "A Petition for a Royal Commission." In effect the article complained of stated that in 1915 and 1916, when the affairs of the P. G. E. Railway Company had become seriously involved, a sum of $50,000 was paid by the company to the plaintiff for protection and favorable treatment from the Liberal party.

Questioned by Mr. A. H. Macneil, K.C., General McRae testified yesterday that he was told in the Fall of 1917 by General Stewart that he, General Stewart, had contributed $350,000 to Conservative party funds and $300,000 to Liberal party funds and that his firm was very much worried about the treatment it would receive.

At that time there had been a parliamentary inquiry.

General Stewart said his firm was obligated to finish the P.G.E. road, and to do so would be ruinous to all concerned.

Questions Ruled Out

"Why was he making these contributions?" asked Mr. Macneil.

"I will have to rule that out," said Mr. Justice Murphy on objection of Mr. Farrie.

Following his return to British Columbia witness said he investigated and found out that P.G.E. had issued that of $500,000 he had, he was to take care of contributions to the Conservative party.

Asked by Mr. Macneil as to his conversation with Mr. Charles Tupper, the reply of General McRae was cut off by the judge as it bordered on the charge of qualified privilege instead of libel for damages.

"Are you relying on qualified privilege or libel for damages, Mr. Macneil," the judge asked.

Mr. Macneil answered "both."

Judge Murphy then stated that the evidence could not be admitted without a ruling from the bench that there was a qualified issue and this could not be granted without evidence, he said.

General McRae left the witness box and Ashworth Anderson took the stand in an effort to establish qualified privilege.

Mr. Anderson said he was first vice-president and chairman of the finance committee of the Provincial party during the last provincial election. He attended the convention at which some 220 delegates were present from all over the province, when the petition, asking for an investigation was unanimously endorsed at the convention after it was read by Mr. Charles Tupper.

"Did General McRae have anything to do with the confirmation of the petition?"

"Not to my knowledge," witness replied.

"Neither did I, to your knowledge," chimed in Mr. J. W. de la Farrie, sarcastically.

Witness admitted that he had seen the article in "The Searchlight," and it was reprinted, he thought, in other Vancouver papers. The witness stated that some thirty-two thousand dollars was voluntarily subscribed to the Provincial party for campaign funds by friends.

Counsel Addresses Jury

The whole of Tuesday afternoon was devoted to addresses to the jury by Mr. Macneil, chief counsel for General McRae, Mr. Farrie, chief counsel for Mr. Sloan, and Mr. Justice Murphy.

It had been claimed by the defence, and their principal line of defence was that while the statements had been printed, as alleged, General McRae was not directly responsible for same. It had been shown that he had contributed the sum of forty thousand dollars for the election campaign of the Provincial party, and included the financing of "The Searchlight." In addressing the jury, Mr. Macneil alleged that this sum was paid to General McRae as a general in France. He did not once put the cartridge in the cannon, nor did he once pull the string that fired it, but the result of each shot were attributed to him, and he was responsible for all shots fired under his command. The same thing applies in the present case. He was general in command of the campaign and anything which "The Searchlight" fired, he was responsible for.

For the defence, Mr. Macneil insisted that no matter how many times "The Searchlight" had merely published statements which General McRae believed at the time to be correct.

Judge's Charge

His Lordship, in addressing the jury, spoke for forty minutes. He pointed out that two lines of defence had been abandoned, and continued on Page 2.

COBHAM IS EXPECTED IN LONDON TOMORROW

Present Plan Is for Him to Alight on Thames and Come Ashore Up Parliament Steps

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Alan J. Cobham, the British flyer who recently made the trip to Australia and is on a return flight to England, is now making 1,000 miles from London. He flew yesterday 500 miles from Basra, Iraq, to Alexandria, Egypt, landing at Baghdad on route.

If Cobham continues to make good progress, he expects to arrive in London any time after Thursday afternoon, completing his 34,000-mile flight from England to Australia and back.

The present plan is for him to alight with his seaplane on the Thames at Westminster and come ashore by the steps leading to the House of Parliament, provided he does not arrive during the traffic rush hours.

MILITARY ACTION IN CHINA NOT WARRANTED SAYS PREMIER BALDWIN

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Premier Baldwin today told the House of Commons that British steamers are plying unhindered between Canton and Hong Kong and that there has been no interference with British trade at Hankow, despite recent agitation.

The Prime Minister said that reinforcements are now being sent to China to render the naval forces in the Far East sufficient to protect British subjects and interests. Mr. Baldwin said, and no army reinforcements have been dispatched.

The amount claimed by plaintiff had been fifty thousand dollars, but the jury, in their deliberations, cut the sum by ten thousand dollars, and decided that General McBue should

Millions Go to Charity Under Vow of Secrecy

Philanthropists Often Prefer to Watch Good Work Donations Accomplish as Unknown Bystanders—C. H. Dodge Called War Profits "Blood Money"

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—An invalid business man has given $500,000 to one charity on condition that his name be not divulged. No solicitor or other representative of the Near East Relief, to which the money has been donated, ever has seen this man. A physician and a trained nurse always are with him, and when efforts have been made to see him, to express appreciation of his help, it has been the physician who spoke for him. As a rule the contributions have been on his own initiative, usually in the shape of a cheque for $50,000, without waiting for a special occasion or a special appeal.

This man's sufferings have made him peculiarly susceptible of the sufferings of others. The occasion for anonymity here is clear enough. The invalid's physical disability and suffering are the cause for avoiding the publicity which his generosity might bring. Other men sometimes wish to remain in the background because they fear they will become targets for charitable solicitors in general, and others, it is safe to say, because of genuine modesty.

But a man, who sent a diamond ring for the fund not long since, has still another reason. The ring had cost him $20, and his stipulation was that it be sold for $400, this money to go for Near East Relief. The reason, he explained, was that it was an engagement ring. The young woman had killed him and he was sure he would never have another occasion to use it. (The organization could have started a jewelry shop with the contributions of this sort, but most of them have come from women.)

Another man who gave $100,000 not long since to a certain island philanthropy stipulated that should his name become known in connection with the campaign he would withdraw his pledge. For some time those in charge were perplexed as to the cause of this. All the reasons which make for publicity in such cases seemed to be operative: the desire for commendation, approval, the expansive glow which comes of well doing, the public evidence that the donor is prospering. But it was found that this man was in business with a "hard-boiled" cycle who had no patience with charitable impulses. The giver did not want his partner to know of his action. That was why he hid his light under a bushel.

Most public benefactors enjoy the acclaim which publicity brings, and some of them are ably press-agented. It is even said that one well known fund is handicapped by the pressure brought to bear on it by the founder for constant public notice of his good deeds. But when prominent men and women wish, because of shyness or for some other reason, to remain unknown to the newspapers, the leaders in the movement usually argue that the use of the name will weigh with other prospective donors and thus win acquiescence. It is easier to get additional contributions when it is known that prominent persons are interested in the cause.

This sort of pressure was used again and again in the case of the late Cleveland H. Dodge, who gave largely to the Red Cross, the Young

"No one dreamed of asking Mr. Dodge to do more than he was doing," said Mr. Vickrey. "I went to him, however, to ask if he would object to my placing the situation before one or two other men with a view to asking them to supplement what he was doing toward campaign expenses."

Mr. Dodge asked for a little time to think it over, and after a few days summoned Mr. Vickrey again to his office.

"I'll provide the extra $100,000 or whatever else is necessary to see the thing through," he said, and asked Mr. Vickrey, thanking him, said he knew Mr. Dodge had recently given large sums to other causes and expressed surprise that he was willing and able to do this. To that Mr. Dodge replied that he had resolved, when the war broke out, that he would not only do his bit, but that neither he nor his estate should profit by it.

Wouldn't Profit by War
"Some people call us profiteers," he added. "We cannot help it. The Government fixes the price on copper, we don't. We profit at the price fixed by the Government, but I have resolved that no one cent of this blood money shall stick to these fingers." His campaign for $100,000,000 Mr. Dodge was ill at his country home. A letter telling of the magnitude of the campaign was sent to him and he read it in bed. Lying there, he scribbled with a lead pencil on a piece of yellow paper his promise to give one per cent of the total.

Probably no other man has ever given away $1,000,000 quite so informally as that.

Not infrequently a man's benefactions do not become known until after his death. The late John H. Dunwoody, a Minneapolis millionaire, was one of these. During his lifetime he gave liberally to various causes, but when, a short time before his death, he was asked to contribute

Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the War Work Fund, educational institutions and so on. Yet many of his benefactions never became known. He gave away large sums of money after the World War because he regarded it to be his own expression, as "blood money," and wished not to talk about it. At 85 years of age, he withdrew his name partly through a real modesty, partly for purposes of policy.

Near East Relief Expenses
It was not known, for instance, just why the Near East Relief was able to advertise in the newspapers that "100 cents of every dollar would go for relief—none for expenses, which are paid privately." It was not a group of men who were meeting the overhead, but Mr. Dodge alone, and he did it for years, in addition to all his other philanthropies.

Charles V. Vickrey, president of the International Near East Relief Association, told not long ago (after the death of Mr. Dodge) how, when $15,000,000 was the sum set to be raised in 1915, at a time when Armenians were dying of starvation at the rate of 10,000 a day, it became necessary to enlarge the campaign expenses.

WOMEN TELL ONE ANOTHER

In the privacy of their homes at afternoon teas, and wherever women congregate, and the subject of health is discussed, it is a most common occurrence for one woman to tell another of the benefit she has derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For over fifty years this famous root and herb medicine has been restoring sick and ailing women to health. This accounts for its marvelous success. If sick and ailing, why don't you try it?

George Eastman's enormous benefactions were kept secret for years. This in spite of the fact that no man, probably, gets more fun out of giving away money than he does. For many years the Massachusetts Institute of Technology received endowments totalling millions from a mysterious "Mr. Smith." There was a good deal of curiosity as to the identity of this man. Millionaires in New York and Boston were questioned about it, and had to admit they were not the benefactor. Finally, in 1920, an additional gift of $4,000,000 made necessary a stock transfer, and thus the cat was out of the bag. When Mr. Eastman was asked if he had made the transfer to realize funds for the gift, he admitted it indifferently. He did not understand why there should be so much bother about it.

It was Mr. Eastman's notion that money, given for the development of science and the training of scientists, was the best use of the benefit of the whole country, on the theory that industrial advances have been due to this factor. But when he gave about ten millions to a school of music at

Colonel Is Defeated By Former Subaltern

MAJOR LANG

Member of the Federal House for South Tennessee. Major Lang, defeated Col. F. Armstrong, who was his commanding officer in the army when Lang was a subaltern.

Rochester, he was interested only in an effort to make the lives of Rochester workers more interesting and richer.

He was a good deal concerned, as he admitted at the time, about the drabness and dullness of modern industrial labor. But he had no delusion that the people of Rochester would flock spontaneously to hear good music. On the contrary, he behaved as though music were a trap, and conscientiously baited it. He exhibited motion pictures and provided classical musical programmes.

The people who paid to see the films knew there was something different about the shows, and in time they came so much to care for the something which was different that they would pay to hear an all-musical programme with no "movie" to see. Thus, from a community which has learned to know and love good music, there can always be recruited fine prospects as pupils for the school of music.

Mr. Eastman has given away, out of his own safe deposit box, 10,000 shares of stock in his own business to old employees. This fact has been printed, I believe, but there may be other donations about which nothing has been said. There have been large gifts to the Rochester Y.M.C.A. and community chest. Mr. Eastman is a bachelor, and it is probable that the bulk of his fortune will go to philanthropies.

Sympathy for Countrymen
There is a New York business man whose benefactions have been kept secret and are now for the first time revealed. It is Mr. Karagheusian, and he has contributed $500,000 to the Near East Relief with the proviso that no mention of his name shall be made. His largest single donation was $150,000. Apparently he has been influenced in these gifts by sympathy for his fellow countrymen. There may be others still unrevealed.

Another cause, Mr. Karagheusian is a wealthy rug dealer, and it will readily be conceded that he might have made capital of his generosity. He refused to do so. His name is made public now only on condition that it be done inconspicuously, in an article dealing with the subject generally.

The Guibankian brothers, who are Armenians, have given another $500,000 to this relief, but the owner of a large New York departmental store, who has been an anonymous contributor to the Near East Relief year after year, still refuses to permit the use of her name.

Eliza Root gives generously to Hamilton College, where he received his A. B. in 1884, but the fact has seldom crept into the newspapers. As a rule the gifts of alumni to their colleges and universities are made public, although sometimes the campaigns are carried forward without the help of newspaper publicity. In such cases it is done through personal correspondence, and the late Mr. George W. Perkins, who had met with considerable success in raising money for political campaigns in that way, thought the method could be applied in one of the major Red Cross drives. He undertook to do it in his own office, with the help of his office staff, but afterward he preferred not to discuss the venture. He had learned that while men will respond to a written appeal on behalf of their party, or their alma mater, they need a direct contact if they are to contribute to causes more remote.

Two foreign cigarette manufacturers who have amassed great wealth have donated their $5,000,000 business when they die to a certain Board of Foreign Missions in the United States, the proceeds to be used in the education of their fellow countrymen. They are brothers and prefer that the money shall be spent by the board rather than by any other agency; but those who contribute the board may experience some embarrassment (perhaps, if they abhor nicotine as heartily as some churchmen, even some twinges of conscience) when they come to administer a cigarette manufacturing enterprise. The names of the brothers are to remain secret until after their death.

"I hear you made money out of the oil business."
"You bet! Been out of it all my life!"

Canadian War Memorials Are Nearing Completion

Brigadier-General H. T. Hughes, C.M.G., D.S.O., Engineer of Canadian Battlefields' Memorials Commission, Here on Holiday, Tells About Shrines

Brigadier-General H. T. Hughes, C.M.G., D.S.O., chief engineer of the Canadian Battlefields' Memorials Commission, returned a few days ago to Victoria for another of his brief annual holidays with his family here. At his home at Elk Lake yesterday afternoon, before extending to his visitor an invitation to see over his fox farm, he told a Colonist reporter something about the progress which has been made with the great project on which he has been steadily engaged in France ever since 1919.

Of his own part in the work he had little to say, but his enthusiasm for the undertaking became apparent as he talked, occasionally leaning forward to select from a collection of photographs and snapshots on the table one which would illustrate some feature or detail in the scheme of memorial design or, at another point, to demonstrate the manner of unloading the great blocks of granite granite which are being taken all the way from Quebec to France for use in six of the eight monuments which are being completed as memorials to Canadian soldiers who fell fighting on the long western front.

Saint Nazaire Tablet

One of the most recently-taken of these pictures was that of the bronze memorial tablet which a few months ago was placed in the Town Hall at Saint Nazaire, France, to commemorate the landing of the 1st Canadian Division. This tablet, designed by General Hughes himself, and a picture of which is shown on this page, carries a very simple record of the now historic incident, recited first in French, then in English:

"Ici, le 24 Février, 1915, débarquent dix-huit mille soldats Canadiens, avant-garde d'une armée de trois cent trente-huit mille hommes, cette armée combattit les Allemands pendant quatre ans; livra vingt-sept batailles et avec les Alliés victorieux marcha sur le Rhin."

"Here landed the First Canadian Division, eighteen thousand strong, on the 24th February, 1915."

"Three hundred and twenty thousand followed; throughout four years the Canadians fought the Germans; after engaging in twenty-six battles they marched in victory to the Rhine."

Government Represented

The ceremony of the unveiling attracted a great deal of interest in the little town of Saint Nazaire. The Hon. Philippe Roy, Canadian High Commissioner in Paris, headed the group of Canadian Government representatives, which included also General Hughes, Colonel Forster, Colonel Baker and Captain Simpson; while the French were represented by the Mayor of Saint Nazaire, by General Rivain, representing the French Ministry of War, and others.

The bronze plaque hangs in the vestibule of the Town Hall of Saint Nazaire, and after the unveiling, the Hon. Philippe Roy made the following address:

"In 1915 a Canadian division landed in St. Nazaire, and a few weeks later they were fighting side by side with the French and English in Flanders. Very few of those soldiers whom you saw and welcomed again saw their own families. They sacrificed their lives to save your glorious country and civilization."

"Three hundred and fifty thousand Canadians came over to France during 1915 and 1916, and sixty-five thousand remained, dead, for the common welfare. We are erecting monuments over the battlefields where lie our heroic dead. This modest plaque, which you have allowed us to put up in your town, will remind those who are to come after us that the Canadians were the first to come over to save France. The participation of Canada in this war was instantaneous, generous and without financial interest. We have sacrificed much to save France, but this cannot be compared to what you have suffered. Let us hope that this sacrifice has not been made in vain. Let us unite ourselves, today as yesterday, and set an example to the rest of the world that we are one. This alone will assure permanent peace."

Major's Reply

In his reply, the Mayor of Saint Nazaire expressed France's gratitude to Canada for the ready response she made to his country's call for help.

"Canada," he said, "was once the hospitable landing place of our people when we did not know the joys of liberty in France. These cities going to work clearing the ground and building the roads."

Gigantic Tower

There are eight of these monuments, three in Belgium, five in France. That at Lorette Ridge is by far the biggest, being a tower nearly 170 feet in height. From the top may be seen Arras, Bethune, Vimy Ridge. The three in Belgium are at St. Julien, celebrating the famous action of April, 1915. The Passchendaele memorial commemorates October, 1917. The Sanctuary Wood memorial, reached through an avenue of maples more than a mile and a quarter long, and surmounted with great blocks of stone on which the pilgrim can stand and identify some of the famous spots in the surrounding country, commemorates June, 1918.

The four remaining memorials are in France, at Courcellette, celebrating September, 1916; at Vimy Ridge, celebrating April, 1917; at Le Quesnel, commemorating August, 1918; at Dury, September, 1918; and at Four-lon Wood, October, 1918. At this last spot, it will be remembered, the Canadians foiled the German offensive by crossing the Canal du Nord and taking the Four-lon Wood.

The general scheme of these monuments shows a flight of terraced steps leading up to stone platforms, and a small park with shrubs and flowers. General Hughes says that hardly a trace of the war is now visible in the face of the country itself, except at Vimy Ridge. The great industry of the people, particularly of the women, has brought every inch of the ground under cultivation once again.

First and Last

General Hughes was one of the first officers at Valenciennes in August, 1914, and acted as camp engineer under Sir William Price, being in charge of clearing sites, water supply, the making of roads, electric light, telephone, etc. After serving with his corps throughout the war, he was on his way home to Canada when he was chosen by the Canadian Government as engineer in charge of the elaborate scheme of memorial parks, by which the Dominion decided to mark the achievements of Canada's soldiers during the war. The first Canadian to reach the war zone, he is the last who has served continuously in France and Belgium since 1915, and in two or three weeks after his annual holiday here, he will start once again for France to push on the work on which he has been engaged for the last seven years, a post-war enterprise which, judging by the hundreds of Canadians who annually visit these shrines, is closely linked with the national sentiment.

MORE THAN 402 CRAFT ARE SUNK OR WRECKED

Estimate Given of Marine Losses in Miami Alone in Recent Disastrous Hurricane

MIAMI, Sept. 28.—More than 402 craft were sunk or wrecked in the Miami area during the hurricane, the marine unit of the Citizens' Committee estimated today. A survey of Biscayne Bay and the Miami River revealed 202 boats sunk or wrecked, exclusive of 200 other boats lying high and dry along the bay front and in Royal Palm Park. In the waters of the bay lie the remains of fifty-eight craft, including three sloops, twenty barges, twenty yachts, two motorboats, a dredge, three houseboats, one tug, one rigged yawl, a converted sub-chaser and six schooners, two of which were "four-masters."

Most of the 144 craft sunk or wrecked in the river were of light draft, including fifty-one houseboats, twenty-two yachts, forty-six motorboats and launches, barges, six scows, three lighters, a fishing smack, two derricks, a tug, a dredge and one oil boat. Almost every houseboat in the river was believed occupied and their loss rendered many homeless.

These memorial parks and monuments which the Canadian Battlefields' Memorials Commission have placed in France and Belgium are sought out annually by an increasing number of pilgrims from this side of the ocean. No one who visited the war zone even a year or two after the war could fail to recognize the glacial nature of the undertaking, or realize how much imagination it must have taken in 1919, the year when the commission was appointed, to conceive the shaping of memorial parks from the sharp-torn, trench-scarred, blood-soaked fields. It needed, too, courage and energy to turn to the practical part of the task: the evolving from such chaos of smooth gardens and peaceful backgrounds.

"It meant," said Mary Macleod Moore, who went over the ground in 1924, "patiently searching for owners of the land for the sites and the roads which had to be built to each place. It meant investigating titles and long discussion as to the price and amount of land required; then

BARON BYNG'S FAREWELL

The reporter of the Canadian Press who was appointed to describe the scenes at Ottawa when Baron Byng of Vimy formally ceased to be Governor-General of Canada, and, informally, very informally indeed, bade farewell to the people of Canada, "covered" his assignment in a very workmanlike manner. After reading the descriptive report of the proceedings, we are inclined in our mind that that reporter is worthy of the highest journalistic honors.

We are told that thousands of people of all classes assembled at the railway station to cheer the departing Governor-General and to bid him goodbye; that the demonstration was probably the greatest and certainly the most democratic ever given to a departing Governor-General. But any ordinary reporter would have been impressed by the immensity and variety of the crowd and the enthusiasm of the crowd's demonstration—and probably would not have noticed something of a far deeper human interest. The capable journalist observed two incidents that were worthy of comment because they threw a great light on the character of Lord Byng and accounted to some extent for his wonderful popularity as Governor-General.

His Lordship was standing in the midst of a great throng of politicians, soldiers in uniform, society leaders, and other dignified individuals, all seeking opportunities to shake hands with him and to shower formal compliments upon him. "Messenger boys fought their way through the crowd (messenger boys are usually capable of holding their own in any company) with last-minute boxes obviously containing flowers for Lady Byng. One of these found himself facing Lord Byng. Embarrassed, with cap in one hand and a flimsy box from a florist in the other (an unusual sight, an embarrassed messenger boy) this boy dropped the cap and grasped the hand of the Governor-General, which had been extended toward him. We shall venture to say that there is one very proud and very important messenger boy in Ottawa today who will never forget the gracious act of the retiring Governor-General of Canada.

Again: "A timid old lady on the edge of the platform stumbled on the gravel ballast of the track. She looked frantically round for her escort. A huge, be-medalled man in the kilts of the Cameron Highlanders caught her up and set her down in front of the man she had come to look at from afar. Lord Byng took her hand, bent over her, and for a few moments they laughed together to the exclusion of everybody else."

Now wasn't that a very courteous and knightly act? It was more than a courteous and knightly act, it was a kindly act. The man who displays consideration for an embarrassed small boy and a distressed and disconcerted old lady is endowed with the qualities that insure popularity.

INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION

Henry Ford, "the industrial miracle man," is leading another revolution. He is going to establish the principle of a five-day working week in all his plants, and justifies his action by declaring that the human machine can do as much work in five days as it can do in six, in that respect differing from the mechanical tool, which, in order to achieve the best results, should be kept working as many days as possible. Ford's chief advertising agent, the Hearst Press, extols the action of the industrial magnate. It says Mr. Hearst was the leader in the eight-hour day experiment and that experience proved it was a sound economical movement. We doubt that statement, and we doubt whether Mr. Hearst has conceded the eight-hour day to the whole of his employees. He made the concession to those who forced him to make it. The chief contributor to the Hearst Press works seven days a week, or at least his contributions appear in the Hearst newspapers every day of the week, including the day which has been ordained as a day of rest. We must not be understood as cavilling at the revolutionary movement of Mr. Ford. We are simply speculating about the probable results of it and the inevitable effects of it upon the industrial situation in the United States and throughout the world.

But Mr. Ford is not going to give his workmen six days' pay for five days' work; he hints that it may be possible for his workmen to earn six days' pay by five days' work. The object appears to be to stimulate production in his workshops, which already are noted for the completeness of their equipment and the celerity with which all work is done in them. The human machine will be driven under high pressure and will achieve the highest possible number of revolutions per minute. Engineers tell us that generally happens to a machine when it is driven for any length of time at a speed in excess of its normal capacity. If all the manufacturers of the United States follow the lead of Mr. Ford and speed up their workmen, who already are very fast workers, what chance will the manufacturers of Europe, whose workmen prefer leisurely methods, have in competition against them?

AERIAL TRANSPORTATION

Sir Alfred Yarrow, a builder of ships and a most competent authority upon all matters of transportation, declares that within twenty years aerial liners will be carrying large numbers of passengers across the Atlantic Ocean. One flying machine has just finished a flight practically around the world. Another is nearing the end of a journey from Great Britain to Australia and back. Aeroplanes are carrying thousands of passengers between Great Britain and various parts of Europe and between certain parts of Europe and other parts of it. Considering the comparatively short life of the new art, accidents are few and loss of life insignificant. Aerial navigators are acquiring experience and gaining confidence. Flying machine builders are increasing their knowledge of strains and stresses and making provision for them. There is therefore no doubt that Sir Alfred Yarrow is very conservative in his statement that within twenty years thousands of people will be transported through the air across the Atlantic Ocean. Indeed it is quite possible that the man whose knowledge of water ship construction is unsurpassed may live long enough to crown his notable career with a trip across the ocean on an airship.

ALMOST MIRACULOUS

What a change the election has wrought in the vision and attitude of Mr. King and his lieutenants in the Liberal Party. A week or so ago the Liberal leader was doubtful whether it would be possible for him to attend the sessions of the conference of Imperial Ministers. Now it is announced that not only will the Premier go to the conference, he will go to the Conference attended by at least two, possibly by three, of his Ministers, and one of his supporters will be from the Province of Quebec. Notwithstanding the peculiar result of the election, the election already has produced one satisfactory result, even if the sudden development of an Imperial spirit is to some extent due to the allurements of a trip to England at the public expense. Mr. Dunning is to be taken along because he is an Englishman whose leavey may be expected to lighten the rest of the lump.

We are told that the great and prolific gold fields of South Africa have been fully developed and exploited and that production from them henceforth may be expected to fall. Even so, there will be no lack of the much fine gold necessary to carry on the business of the world. And most of it will be produced within the bounds of the spacious British Empire. A new and rich field is said to have been discovered in Australia. Even if the report of the fabulous wealth of the new El Dorado should prove to be somewhat exaggerated, rich deposits of the alluring yellow dross have been uncovered in the Canadian Province of Quebec, the mines of Ontario are the most promising in the world, and the output of British Columbia is steadily increasing. Canada, qualified authorities assert, soon will be the chief gold-producing country in the world.

We were astonished upon reading an announcement that the Maritime Commission had decided to recommend an addition of $125,000 a year to the Dominion subsidies drawn by the Province of Quebec. We were astonished because of the well-known and sound financial position of Quebec and because the commission was not authorized to consider any grievance of the people of Quebec. The commission has recommended increases in the subsidies paid by the Dominion to the Provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

The Los Angeles court which is hearing the celebrated case of Mrs. Aimee McPherson was crowded. The crowd in the court was divided in sentiment and gave vocal expression to its opinions. One section of the crowd cheered; the other section hissed. The judge ordered the court to be cleared. Whatever the decision of the court, there will be no change in the opinion of the public; one section of the public will cheer; the other section will hiss. And the enthusiastic followers of Mrs. Aimee McPherson and her Four Square Religion will be more enthusiastic than ever.

We have received a number of letters from correspondents who seem to be deeply interested in the subject of "The Mote and the Beam." Every one of those communications is quite as critical of the letter of Mr. Alfred Carmichael, published in The Colonist of Sunday last, as Mr. Carmichael's letter was critical of the writings of R.R.D. But what good purpose could be served by continuation and prolongation of such a controversy?

The baseball season is about over and the baseball championship will soon be decided, but the American who delights in excitement will no longer be denied excitement during the Winter season. Promoters of the sport of hockey have organized a Big League, Canadian hockey players will be imported, and United States "fans" will flock in hundreds of thousands to see a game that is much faster and much more exciting than baseball.

Ex-Mayor Replies to Mayor

Sir—I read with interest the account of Mayor Pendray's speech given in Seattle before the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, and I am pleased that as a result a gentleman was so impressed as to make the decision to pay his arrears in taxes, and I hope that more will follow his good example.

Reading the Mayor's speech in the local newspapers, I find he says in part: "The first time I entered the Council Chamber of the City Hall was as Mayor. Conditions in the city were alarming. Our financial situation was critical. Year after year taxes continued to soar, with the result that each year saw ever increasing diversions of land and buildings. It was a vicious circle, the more land that reverted the heavier became the burden on those who at that time were considered unfortunate property owners. Many of our prominent business men were of the opinion that it would be in the best interests of all if the city went into the hands of a receiver."

Those were the conditions of affairs as I found them when I was first elected as Mayor. The city has adopted a pay-as-you-go policy. No more borrowings. Everything in the way of repairs, after years of neglect, is being taken care of out of general revenue. The impression created by the Mayor's remarks of his speech, is that city affairs were in an appalling condition when he took office. If the Mayor had stated that conditions had been alarming in the past, but he had found them in a state of improvement when he took office, I think that would have been a fairer statement. For instance, the council of 1923 found the "local improvement" sinking fund far in arrears when it came into office, a large bank overdraft of some $385,000 was staring them in the face, and millions of dollars worth of debentures falling due beginning that year and continuing until 1925, and little money to meet them, and city lots were still reverting in large numbers, and a little matter of the $1,000,000 Johnson Street bridge to care for.

In order to cope with the situation the pay-as-you-go policy referred to was inaugurated in 1923. The city was first put into operation then, and special relief acts introduced for the relief of the taxpayer, and proper budgeting was put into force. It is true taxes soared, and it took a plucky council to raise them in face of depressed conditions, but it had to be done to save the situation, and they did it. The 1923 and 1924 council were up against the same proposition. The 1923 council had to raise taxes to meet the situation, and they did it. The 1923 council had to raise taxes to meet the situation, and they did it. The 1923 council had to raise taxes to meet the situation, and they did it.

The 1923 council had to raise taxes to meet the situation, and they did it. The 1923 council had to raise taxes to meet the situation, and they did it.

It was known to the council of 1923 and 1924 that the year 1925 would be the peak year of high taxation, and that a gradual reduction would take place from then, providing no new capital expenditures were authorized, and that the council's policy of economy was being carried out. Under the regime of Mayor Hayward's council, the first reduction in the mill rate took place as predicted, giving a reduction in the mill rate of 1925. The council of 1925 reversed land situation was improving by 1924, and the Mr. Austin who held successful auction sales here in 1925 and 1926, would have sold a sale that year, had not the Reverted Land Committee of which Aid. Todd was chairman decided against it, after long interviewing of various influential delegation of business men representing it as being inopportune at that time.

Mayor Pendray is not just to past councils in broadestest. The city's affairs were in the bad condition he says they were when he took office, when as a matter of fact the council of 1923 and 1924 had laid the actual spadework, and laid the foundations for the civic financial soundness that has been achieved. Credit is due Mayor Pendray for the manner in which he has officiated in the past two years, but let credit be given all round where credit is due.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

I have fought the fight that the world demands and though now I may taste defeat, I plead in mercy with suppliant hands, for the struggle itself was sweet. In the fierce turmoil of the grinding day, in the warfare men wage for good, I have found fresh strength for the rugged way and the struggle itself was good. I have learned to glean from each loss some gain, from each error some joy to reap, and, whatever the lot that may yet befall, these things are my own to keep. So I go, untamed by the risks of the road or the griefs that the years assail, for with back unbent I have borne my load and the joy of the struggle is mine.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of September 29, 1876)

From New Westminster—The steamer Katocton arrived here at half past twelve o'clock yesterday afternoon from New Westminster heavily laden with freight, consisting principally of the cargo of salmon from the coast of British Columbia. The steamer was commanded by Captain J. J. Irving, and the passengers for were also on board. The following passengers and the lower Fraser mail were also on board: Mr. and Mrs. Wells, Capt. J. Irving, J. J. Irving, A. J. McLachlan, J. Todd, Messrs. Allison, Arthur, Charles, Williams and Ross.

Youth Kills First Panther When Trapped At Craig's Crossing

PARKSVILLE, Sept. 28.—It is not often that an eighteen-year-old boy shoots a panther, but this distinction is claimed by Mr. Fred Craig.

Mr. Craig, sr., and his two sons, Bob and Fred, went out on Wednesday with the purpose of bird hunting. The dog, "Fanny," with which Mr. Fred Craig was hunting, suddenly drew his master's attention by his strange actions and he knew it had scented a cougar. After following the scent for a short distance they overtook a big cat, and for all their efforts they could not get him. Meanwhile Mr. Craig, sr., and his elder son, who were not far distant, hearing the dog, knew that Fred had a panther, and they returned to their home for the dog "snooks," a dog specially bred for cougar hunting. Thus, facing the combined efforts of the two dogs, the cougar did not think long before he took to a big fir tree. Mr. Fred Craig soon brought him to the ground. The cougar measured 7 feet 4 inches from tip of tail to nose. Mr. Craig, sr., who is well known in the district as a famous cougar hunter, has killed many during the years he has been here.

BAR ASSOCIATION MEETS TOMORROW

Mr. Marshall Gordon to Read Paper on "The Persona Designata Doctrine"

A general meeting of the Victoria Bar Association will take place tomorrow evening in the Chamber of Commerce. Supper will be served at 6:15 o'clock, while the business session will get under way about 7 o'clock. The gathering will be presided over by Mr. Lindley Crease, K.C., president of the Association.

A feature of the function tomorrow night promises to be the paper that will be read by Mr. Marshall Gordon. The subject Mr. Gordon has decided to discuss is "The Persona Designata Doctrine."

Bigamy Is Alleged

VANCOUVER, Sept. 28.—John Druce, sixty-six, who is charged with bigamy, appeared before Magistrate C. C. Blackwell in city police court, and was remanded until October 4. Bail was set at $2,000.

Alma Druce, Langley, B.C., was ordered to show cause why she should not be committed to prison for bigamy. She is said to declare herself as the third wife of the man, having married him in Seattle.

The charges that Druce bigamously married his present wife, formerly Julia Blackwell, here on July 4 last, Police are further investigating the allegations that Druce already had a wife in Seattle when marrying the informant, and even previous to that had gone through a form of marriage with a woman in England, which ceremony was never set aside.

Committed for Trial

NEW GLAROW, N.B., Sept. 28.—James Cline, charged with murder last Thursday night of Thomas McCull, was committed for trial before the Supreme court at the October session by Stipendiary Magistrate Francis.

Fire Does Damage at Charlie Chaplin Studio

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—Damage estimated by studio officials at $50,000 was caused by fire which broke out in the Charlie Chaplin motion picture studio this afternoon. The fire was caused by a short circuit. The stage was destroyed, as was much of the equipment. Chaplin was making a picture when the fire started, but none of the sets on which he was working were damaged.

CITY TO RECEIVE SURPLUS EARNINGS

B.C. ELECTRIC COMPANY WILL GIVE CHECK FOR RENTAL OF EXTRA WATER

Arrangements to Continue Until the Heavy Rains Set In—City's Water Supply Greater

The City of Victoria expects to receive an extra cheque from the British Columbia Electric Company at the end of September for the rental of extra water supplied the company under a supplementary agreement that was entered into between the city and the B.C. Electric Company in 1925. During the greater part of the present month the city has been renting surplus water to the B.C. Electric Company from the Goldstream watershed at rentals amounting to $82.20 per day greater than the normal amount received from the company in connection with water furnished its power plant at Goldstream.

This supplementary agreement is advantageous to both the City of Victoria and the B.C. Electric Company. From the standpoint of the city only it is producing a substantial amount of increased revenue for the water department, but it also has nullified certain clauses that existed in the old agreement between the power company and the Goldstream Waterworks Company, which was made on June 30, 1915.

From the standpoint of the B.C. Electric Company, it enabled that concern to secure the supply of water at Jordan River and draw more fully, upon payment therefor, from

Report on City Manager By-Law To Be Presented

A REPORT on the city manager question will probably be presented to the City Council at its next meeting, Acting Mayor William Marchant stated yesterday.

Several months ago a petition was presented to the City Council, asking that a referendum on the city manager scheme for the City of Victoria be placed before the electorate. This matter was referred by the Council to a special committee to bring in the draft of a city manager by-law for consideration.

This committee, composed of Alderman Marchant, chairman, and Mayor Carl Pendray, Aldermen J. B. Clearhue and H. C. Holmes, with City Solicitor H. S. Pringle, held a number of meetings, and proceeded to prepare a by-law for submission to the Council. A session of this body will be held this afternoon at the City Hall.

the city's lakes and reservoirs in the Goldstream Hills.

The present situation will last until the heavy fall rains set in, the rainfall such as existed the last few days being too small to affect any change in the programme now being carried out.

Exclusive of extra money that the city will receive this year by virtue of the agreement above referred to, Victoria will secure from the B.C. Electric Railway Company this year the sum of $18,000 for the use of a minimum quantity of 9,000,000 gallons of water a day.

Owing to the policy of conservation of the city's water resources at Sooke lake and Goldstream, and in spite of the extremely light rainfall of the last twelve months, the city's supply of water everywhere is considerably greater than was the case during the same season last year.

PARTY LEADERSHIP COMES TO FRONT

DEFEAT OF RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN FORCES QUESTION UPON CONSERVATIVES

Chief Difficulty in Choice Would Appear to Be in Number Well Qualified for Post

With the resignation of the Conservative Government at Ottawa following the result of the election, and the administration of affairs again restored to the Liberals, the Conservative party throughout the Dominion is directing its attention to reorganization preparatory to meeting the House. This is obligatory in consequence of the defeat of the former leader, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

If Mr. Meighen desired to remain as leader there is little doubt that a constituency could be found for him, but the former head of the party has evidently set his face very firmly against continuing in politics, at least for the present. Those who know Mr. Meighen well can readily understand his attitude. It is pointed out by his friends that he would not want to place himself in a position where it could be said that he was standing in the best light of the party to which he had given such ardent service. He would rather prefer to step aside and leave the situation open to someone else to guide the destinies of the party.

Formidable Opposition
The Conservative members who will constitute the opposition in the new House of Commons form a formidable party. The government which had been formed by Mr. Meighen before he went to the country was regarded as a strong aggregation and with few exceptions, notably that of the leader himself, these were returned at the election. In addition to the personnel of the opposition elected to the House was well above the average.

It is therefore to be expected that the opposition in the new House of Commons will be a most aggressive one. On October 11 a convention of the elected Conservative members of the House of Commons and the Senators of the same persuasion, will be held in the capital, when the situation will pass under review.

The acceptance of the resignation of Mr. Meighen as leader, should be regarded as a most interesting talk on the monthly and annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce, held at the Victoria Hotel, when the situation will be discussed.

Sir Henry Drayton Popular

Those who are in a position to judge of the situation, including not only local political leaders but also some who have recently visited the city from Eastern Canada, incline to the opinion that if Mr. Meighen persists in his determination to drop out of politics for the present the most probable one to be selected will be Sir Henry Drayton, who possesses many of the qualifications that are demanded of a leader of the opposition. He has had experience both in office, and in opposition over a considerable length of time. Moreover he is not easily perturbed, and is generally acceptable to the Eastern sections of the country.

On the other hand, it is felt that Mr. R. B. Bennett may be a strong contender for the post. His qualifications differ somewhat from those of Sir Henry and his leadership would undoubtedly be characterized by rather more brilliancy than would mark that of the Toronto lawyer.

In this connection it is reported from the East that claims are being made on behalf of Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance, in the Borden Government, who has been out of politics for a little time. Sir Thomas, who rose to high position in the financial world, would be regarded as an exceedingly safe man in the position. Some of his admirers, however, fear that he might not be as aggressive as some of the others favored.

Dr. Manion Mentioned

Another man mentioned has been that of Dr. J. J. Manion, of Fort William. His political career has been almost a meteoric one and he has in a short time attained a very high rank among the party leaders. Originally a Liberal, Dr. Manion broke with his former party during the war and has ever since given an unqualified support to the Conservative cause.

An eastern politician who recently visited Victoria and who had the advantage of sitting with Dr. Manion in the House, placed him among the most probable leaders in the House of Commons. He, however, felt that it would be an advantage for him to have a few more years' experience in the ranks before attaining the responsibilities of leading the Conservative party.

The names of two British Columbia members have been mentioned in connection with the leadership, Dr. S. F. Tolmie, the local member, and Mr. H. H. Stevens, of Vancouver. Both of them rank high in the councils of the party, and the Pacific province would feel proud of the honor were it bestowed upon either of them. The disadvantage of being from the extreme border of the Dominion will no doubt militate against both of them.

May Be Temporary Leader

Another matter that is agitating the leaders of the party is with respect to what course should be followed in the making of a choice of a leader, and whether only a temporary leader in the House should be selected at this time, or whether a big general convention should be called at an early date or later to make choice of a permanent leader to take the place of Mr. Meighen.

The Conservative party in the House is realizing that in the selection of a leader there are greater difficulties encountered than with a paucity of qualified persons. There will be the difficulty experienced, it would appear, when the question of decision came forward, in making a selection from the many who possess qualities for the post. This, it would appear, will be the greatest difficulty with which the party will have to contend.

VICTORIA GARDENERS AT SOCIAL EVENING

Local Association Hears Interesting Address on Occasion of Prize Presentations

The Victoria and District Gardeners' Association held a most enjoyable social gathering last evening at the Chamber of Commerce banquet hall, the president, Mr. P. H. Leighton, acting as chairman.

In the absence of the mayor, Alderman Marchant, vice-president of the association, distributed the prizes awarded in the home gardening competition, and gave a most interesting talk on the benefits to be derived from gardening. Mr. W. B. Anderson, of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, distributed the prizes for the monthly and annual competitions, and spoke on the subject of native plants, of which he is an accepted authority.

A delightful musical programme was enjoyed by the large attendance of members, among those taking part being the Misses Audrey and Eileen Bennett, who gave a number of solos and duets; Mr. B. White and Mr. C. Stapleton, who sang several solos; Mr. George Hallett, elocutionist, and Mr. F. McCreilly, the Cornish wizzard. Mr. Percy Fletcher acted as accompanist.

After refreshments were served, Mr. Charles St. Barbe addressed the gathering on the "Joy of Gardening."

A beautiful exhibition of gladioli, given by Mr. E. M. Palmer, of Cowichan Bay, was the cause of much interest, and other late Summer flowers were also on display.

The affair was one of the most successful ever arranged by the association, and after a number of musical numbers and recitations, the evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Death from Starvation!

That's the Fate that Awaits Every Moth-Worm that Tries to Live on "Sani-Bilt"

IN their search for a method of permanently mothproofing furniture, a group of scientists and industrial chemists discovered that moth-worms need a certain food element called "Keratin," which is present in wool, feathers, fur and many other materials. Without "Keratin," a moth-worm could not live. It is as vital to them as milk is to a baby.

Remove the "Keratin" or make it uneatable and moth-worms could not live on mohair, wool, feathers, fur and other materials that moths use for food.

These men found it useless to use poison. Liquid arsenic, for example, soon dried into a powder and evaporated into the air. Other poisons lost their strength in time and left the "Keratin" still there and the materials an easy prey for moths.

But patience was at last rewarded. After years of study and research, a chemical compound was found that changed the "Keratin" and made it useless as a food for moth-worms. Not being able to eat the "Keratin," the moth-worms could not exist on materials treated with this compound.

This chemical compound and the process of applying it to the materials not only changes this "Keratin" into an uneatable element, but it can never change back again to "Keratin." Thus, fabrics and fillings given this process of moth-proofing are forever mothproof. As long as the materials last, they are permanently mothproof.

Death from starvation awaits any moth-worms, that by any chance, happen to get on any material mothproofed by this process.

Furthermore, this mothproofing process does not injure materials in the slightest. It is colorless, odorless and does not change the appearance or feel of the fabric.

If you are invited to buy other moth-proof suits, just ask this one question:

"Will you replace this suite if Moths damage it?"

Snyder's guarantee says that and protects you absolutely.

Remember, poison wears off or evaporates. Death by starvation—the Snyder process—is the only permanent method. Also, remember that the fillings must be mothproofed, as well as the coverings. Merely spraying bug poison is a make-shift.

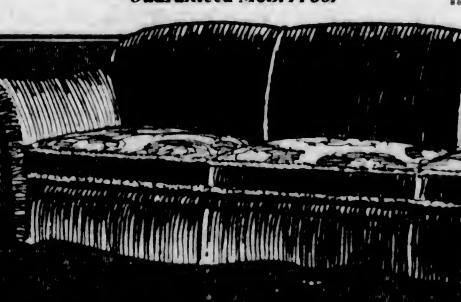

Look for the Snyder "Sani-Bilt" trademark under the cushions, also the Guarantee Tag attached to each chestfield and chair. Then, you'll make certain of permanently mothproof upholstered furniture.

A Replacement Guarantee

Do not be misled, if someone says, "Madam, this suite is guaranteed to be treated against moths" or "This suite is guaranteed mothproof." Just ask him if he will give you a guarantee—in writing—to replace the suite, should it be damaged by moths.

The Snyder Sani-Bilt Guarantee is a replacement guarantee and it is an absolute guarantee. Snyder's, Limited, guarantee to replace any and every Sani-Bilt Suite of upholstered furniture, if moths do the slightest damage. And this written guarantee accompanies every piece.

Cable Received at Toronto Office of United Church Foreign Missions
No Reports

TORONTO, Sept. 28.—That the military situation affecting travel in the Yangtze valley in Central China is much easier, is indicated by a cable received at the foreign missions office of the United Church of Canada, reporting the arrival at Shanghai of three men, five women and twelve children from the West China Mission.
Within one week they had travelled 1,500 miles down the Yangtze River. The other mission agents who were left at Chin Lung, in West China, last week, are remaining at Tehang, part way down the Yangtze and will return to their fields at Chung-King when the opportunity appears.

A cable from Rev. W. A. Mortimer, Chengtu, secretary-treasurer of the West China Mission, reports all quiet in the western division of the field.

who was charged with being drunk in a public place. It appeared that the accused had bought six bottles of beer on Saturday and had drunk some of the contents before his arrest. Ling had been very talkative and Constable Atkinson had taken him to the police station. "I like you," Ling told the magistrate, in telling the Chinaman that he could go. "You talk too much."
Smiling merrily, Ling fled out of the courtroom and onto the street once again.

AIR FORCE IS NAMED
FIRST LINE DEFENCE

Lord Thomson, Former Secretary of State for Air, Points to Aeroplane as Decisive Factor in War

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Lord Thomson, who was Secretary of State for Air in the Labor Government, was the guest of the London Commercial Club at the Trocadero Restaurant.

Speaking on the problems of air defence, Lord Thomson said that it was now recognized that the Royal Air Force was the first line of home defence, and that the first, and perhaps decisive, phase of the next war, if there ever was one, would be in the air.

That first attack would be directed against the larger cities, with the object of creating a panic, and it would be the destruction of dockyards, air-military centres, and railway junctions.
If successful, it might largely im-mobilize our military and naval defence.

A number of people had been urging, in the interests of economy, that a Ministry of Defence should be established. Lord Thomson said that hence this might be feasible, when aviation had developed, to direct the whole of our strategy for warfare from one central point, namely the Ministry of Defence. But for the moment there were three policies which must be pursued—the defence of our islands, the defence of our defence of India. These three policies were entirely separate in their character.

Louis Graveure Gives Recital at Royal on Monday, October 4th

No singer before the public today is so well known for arranging varied and interesting programmes as Louis Graveure, the internationally famous baritone, who will appear here on Monday, October 4, at the Royal Victoria Theatre, in one of his extraordinary recitals. Mr. Graveure's many appearances outside of New York permitted him time for but one recital in New York last season, which was advertised as his only appearance. The high esteem in which this singer is held as an artist may be judged from the following tribute written by Richard Aldrich, the conservative critic of The New York Times, which appeared in that paper under date of January 22, 1922:

VALUABLE PICTURE SOLD FOR DOLLAR

LONDON, Sept. 28.—How a forgotten painting was sold for a dollar or two, was revealed to be a Gainsborough masterpiece, and is now valued at $50,000, has been revealed at Old Dalby, a picturesque Leicestershire village near Melton Mowbray.

The romance started at Old Dalby Hall, a quaint old mansion, once the residence of Admiral Sir Herbert Sewer. Workmen were removing furniture, books and pictures in the mansion when they came across a tattered and grimy portrait of a woman, which had for years occupied a position in the front hall. When the picture was offered by auction there was little or no enthusiasm. It was sold to a local dealer for a "song."

It next came into the possession of Henry Graves, a well known dealer, who paid $500 for it. The new owner had his "find" carefully cleaned and restored and it was then discovered to be a genuine Gainsborough, and the portrait was of Miss Elizabeth Duncomb, a reigning beauty of the seventeenth century.

The next purchaser was the Earl of Chesterfield, who paid Mr. Graves $1,000, but died before the picture was delivered. Eventually it reached the hands of Baron Lionel Rothschild, who secured it for $10,000. It has since been valued at $50,000.

PAINTINGS DEPICT
SCENES IN SPAIN

OILS AND WATER COLOURS TO BE SHOWN BY MR. TREVOR HADDON, R.B.A.

Old Portugal Also Offers Material for Clever Brush of Continental Artist

Among the most recent of the diversions offered to art-loving people of the city is a visit to Old Portugal and Spain. Mr. Trevor Haddon, R.B.A., an English artist, who has recently arrived here and taken over the studio at 202 Union Bank Building, formerly occupied by the Island Arts and Crafts Society, on Friday will open an exhibition of oils and water-colours which he painted during several visits to the Iberian Peninsula. This exhibition, which will be on view for the week of the 29th, contains between sixty and seventy paintings, any one of which betrays both in composition and technique the hand of a master, and it is cheering news indeed that Mr. Haddon has already decided not only to remain here throughout the winter at least, but to give further exhibitions of pictures which he painted in Italy and elsewhere.

Portugal and Spain offer colorful material, and will be particularly appreciated now that our own Summer is receding. On entering the little gallery one has a confused sense of strong sunshine and gleaming stucco walls, the dazzling white relieved here and there with kaleidoscopic color.
It is like stepping from a dark room into a southern street. But as the eye adjusts itself to the light, the detail sifts itself out just as it would in fact, and one discovers the panorama of the bazaar and market, the mosque and the city gate unfolding before one.

Mr. Haddon's style has variety, fine craft and breadth, and a kind of national feeling for his subject that gives it virile interest. A particularly attractive characteristic is that while he is intensely observant of the architectural beauties of a country which has come in turn under the influence of Visigoth and Christian, Jew and Moor, he is also very alive to the colorful life of the streets, the picturesque dress and attitudes and occupations of the people, Merchants, medicants, old women, girls, peddlers, horsemen and soldiers take their places naturally about the picturesque arcades and arched vestibules. There is in his painting of the figures elegance, color, animation, but always with the strict observance of beautiful geometrical forms in pavement and wall-decoration, arch and dome, which to the lover of architecture is essential to any portrayal of Spain.

Historical Value
It is because of this facility to detail, both in the depicting of architecture and dress, that Mr. Haddon's work assumes a historical as well as an artistic value. Mr. Arnold Bennett would hardly have chosen him to do the illustration of his series of articles on Spain which appeared last year in The Daily Express, London.
He had no better known as an authority on the subject.

As a matter of fact Mr. Haddon as long ago as 1905 made a special trip to Spain (although not his first, even then) to make pictures for Calverley's
"Travels in Southern Spain," a handsomely illustrated volume. In his present exhibition the artist shows some of the original studies which he made for this work, including "Procession of Torreadors," a colorful pageant which shows a section of one of the great arenas, where the bull fights take place, the picadors entering on their horses, preceded by the matadors, afoot.

This is one of the water colors which constitute about two-thirds of the present collection.
Other water colors include a street scene in Alcala, very characteristic with its arches crossing the street and the rich ornamentation of the walls, the strong shadows and the fuchsiacolored shawl of the woman throwing into strong relief the bright sunshine, reflected from the roofs. Arab musicians on a roof garden, the dome of a mosque in the background, carry attention to the beautiful effect of the mixed architecture in wall shown in two or three pictures of Toledo, one showing a full gateway with the pear-shaped arch.

There are two or three pictures of Cordova, some displaying the characteristic horseshoe arch, and one group of buildings above. And several of bits of old Seville, one showing the famous Giralda tower, while another shows boats with oar-shaped sails.
An interior view of Seville Cathedral, showing the graceful soaring proportions, is included in the collection.
The old Castilian city of Gerona is pictured with its cathedral standing high above the surrounding buildings.

Cairo and Fez
Cairo, Fez and Tangier have legiti-mate place in the collection because of their architectural affinity, although here one finds the camel and camel driver appearing in the street life. The life and animation which the artist injects into these scenes makes them very real incidents.

Among the larger oils which Mr.
Haddon is showing are three of an open market place with vendors and purchasers gathered about the fruits, the soft rich browns and greens, reds and blues of the Arab robes, the dome of a mosque in the background, camels, cobble paved extension of the scene. On the opposite wall are some big canvases of Granada, the city of the Alhambra. One street scene, with sunlit balconies filled with flowers, and women in characteristic dress moving in the pale lilac shadows under the arches, is very striking. There is also an immense scene in Fez, Jerusalem, bits of Egypt, and other scenes about the Mediterranean complete this delightful exhibition.
Mr. Haddon's studio adjoins this room, and here one may see some samples of his work in portraiture. In this field also, it should be said, he has won some distinction, having received commissions for many present portraits as well as for past and lengthy panel portraits of fellow members of the Savage Club.

Welsh: "These modern inventions are certainly wonderful. But, just think we turn on a switch and get the coffee boiled."

Scott: "That's nothing when I was a boy, my father used to turn on the switch whenever he wanted the wood cut or the lawn mowed."

At the Playhouses

PLAYHOUSE "Three Weeks in Paris," the diverting story written by Gregory Rogers of an innocent young American's adventures in Paris, has been pictured by Warner Bros. With an all-star cast, headed by Matt Moore and Dorothy Devore, this photoplay is now showing at the Playhouse Theatre.

CAPITOL Picture two men, help- less in a huge iron vat. High above them is a raving maniac manipulating the controls of a giant crane that is swing- ing a huge ladle filled with molten steel. He is swinging it slowly but surely toward the helpless men in the vat. His sole intent is to dump the molten mass on the heads of the two men who cannot escape. As the ladle approaches the men, great masses of the liquid steel slip over and fall to the floor of the steel mill, spraying death to whoever steps in its path. That is the start of one of the most powerful scenes in First Na- tional's forthcoming steel special, "Men of Steel," which is now show- ing at the Capitol Theatre here.

George Archambaud directed. This scene was staged in the Ensley Mills of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Com- pany plant at Birmingham, Alabama.

COLUMBIA Two well-known come- dians, formerly seen in the slapstick variety of comedy, are now brightening the screen in some of the best of the new feature-length comedy films which are being made for the delight of the moviegoer. Eddie Gribbon and Tom Wilson are the pair who make up a comedy team in the latest Al Christie special feature, "Seven Days," which has been filmed from the Mary Roberts Rinehart-Avery Hopwood stage farce which made a hit several years ago throughout America, and which is showing today at the Colum- bia Theatre for the last time.

DOMINION Vilma Hanky the Theatre "Hungarian Rhapsody" The hardest test for a stage produc- tion in the Dominion Theatre, is one more appearing opposite Rudolph Valentino in "The Son of the Sheik," his new starring photoplay, showing this week at the Dominion Theatre. Under the direction of George Fitz- maurice, Miss Hanky appears as Yas- min, a desert dancer who wins the love, then the hate of the young tribal chieftain. The story, crammed with romance and adventure, is said to afford Valentino and Miss Hanky even greater emotional opportunities than they had in "The Eagle," the last picture in which they appeared together.

COLISEUM That Victoria theatre- goers still have a prefer- ence for the legiti- mate stage is evidenced by the large crowds packing the Coliseum to wit- ness Mr. Redmond's reproduction of the romantic drama "Pollyanna." The hardest test for a stage produc- tion in the Coliseum is a second week's run, but "Pollyanna" is playing nightly to steadily increasing houses. A beautiful story, full of romance and good, gleeful humor, well-con- structed scenery, splendid acting and the masterly direction of Ed. Red- mond make of the current presentation the Coliseum's most successful play to date.

MANY HOURS BEFORE MINERS ARE FREED

Time Necessary to Dig Through Hard Earth, Rock and Slate Cannot Yet Be Estimated

IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 28.—

Many additional hours of countless toil in underground passageways of the Pabst mine will be necessary before the fate of the forty-three miners imprisoned there since Fri- day is learned.

Officials of the Oliver Iron Mining Co., directing the rescue work, re- fused tonight to estimate the prob- able time when the men will be reached, and one engineer said it might take a week or ten days. Whether the men are rescued alive depends they say on earth conditions encountered in boring towards the eighth level, 727 feet below the sur- face, where the men are imprisoned.

Wives and children of the entombed miners found a note of hope in the declaration of Dr. E. H. Madansky, physician and surgeon of the Oliver Company, who said he believed the men could "live at least two weeks, with fresh air and water and without food. The fact that the eighth level is warm is much in their favor."

The hard earth, rock and slate combined to provide stubborn resistance to the boring operations of the crews, which change every four hours.

BISHOP WOULD BRING MINERS TO DOMINION

Bishop of London, Speaking in Win- nipeg, Continues Advocacy of British Immigration

WINNIPEG, Sept. 28.—Settlement of Britain's population of 1,500,000 idle miners in the mineral areas of British Columbia and Northern On- tario, was a suggestion advanced by Rt. Rev. A. P. Winnipeg-Ingram, Lord Bishop of London, in address- ing the men and women's Canadian Clubs here.

The opportunities in Canada, his lordship considered as priceless. "You have not begun to exploit your riches," he declared. "If you had enough people your industries would beat the United States." His lordship added, "And when your population reaches 100,000,000, Canada will be lending money to the United States."

"There are 1,500,000 of them in Great Britain—thousands of them boys—who have not got a stroke of work in do. You need these young fellows," he said.

CITY OF VERA CRUZ IS DAMAGED BY STORM

Ships Sunk, Piers Flooded and Streets Littered With Fallen Trees, But Few Casualties

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 28.—Vera Cruz has been swept by a hurricane, the most devastating since 1888. Several ships were sunk in the bay, and the Ward liner San Juan was partially wrecked.

With the coast gale came heavy seas, which flooded the piers and drove out those living in that neigh- borhood, in fear of an inundation. The hurricane blew for several hours but about midday the wind be- gan to fall and the storm swept over- land.

The streets of Vera Cruz are lit- tered with fallen trees, but thus far no many casualties are reported. There is no word of damage to the interior.

There is no Ward Line steamer San Juan. Available records indicate that the steamer referred to in the Vera Cruz dispatch may be the Itel "Itel" Line's freighter San Juan.

Automobile Collides With Passenger Train

EVERETT, Sept. 28. Heavy cloth- ing was found tonight in wreckage of an automobile in which Harry J. Werner, fifty-six, Long Beach, Cal., and his daughter, Ella H. Werner, twenty-six, St. Paul, were killed to- day when the machine and a passen- ger train collided near here.

No trace of an infant was found in the demolished car. Parts of Werner's body were carried half a mile by the train. The father was identified by a grocerman whom he had planned to visit. Father and daughter had come from the East and were tour- ing the Pacific Coast. They were en route from Vancouver to Everett at the time of the wreck.

Field Museum Party Is Reported at Marseilles

(Copyright by North American Newspaper Alliance)

MARSEILLES, France, Sept. 28.—The Chicago Daily News and Field Museum of Natural History expedition set out to sea from this port today, bound for unexplored parts of Abyssinia. The five members of the party are taking with them 5,000 pounds of scientific equipment, arms and ammunition.

Dr. Wilfred Osgood, curator of the Department of Zoology of the Field Museum and leader of the expedition, said that it would probably be six to eight months before the party secured the rare animals for which it is searching. These include the Queen of Sheba's antelope, or Nyala; the Dallia baboon, the relict- uated giraffe, the Pygmy gibbon and the black-necked lion.

The party will land at Jibuti, in French Somaliland, and travel from there to Addis Ababa, in the heart of Abyssinia, by rail.

Fashions and Foibles

By Shirley Sharon

Answering the clarion call to boarding school and college, a flock of light weight camels hair tulle in the new straw-berried red quite removes the blue-stocking curse from the student princess. The flower is quite lovely with the crepe de Chine in the lower part cut in the calyx outline of a flower. The narrow bloom and turn-down collar are also of the crepe de Chine which is often used in contrast to the dress where the color permits it. The dress is in one piece, and pleats set in across the front give plenty of width for the last-minute breeze to chapel or a quiz in chemistry.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH SCENE OF WEDDING

Miss Muriel Wilson Becomes Bride of Mr. Peter Stewart—Young Couple to Reside in Ottawa

A wedding of unusual interest was solemnized at St. John's Church on Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, when the Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick, assisted by the Rev. Monague Bruce, united in holy matrimony Muriel Grace, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilson, formerly of Victoria, and Mr. Peter Stewart, of Ottawa.

The bride entered the church in the arm of her uncle, Mr. D. Keith Wilson, and looked pretty in a gown of white tulle with lace and pearl trimmings, and court train lined with shell pink georgette. Her bridal veil was of Brussels net embroidered with "lovers' knots in pearls, and was held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and swansons.

The bride was attended by Miss Gertrude Fox, who looked very pretty in a dress of pale green georgette with all-over silk lace and flounce, and wore a white georgette hat with hand-painted floral design. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Chadwick made a charming little flower girl in her dress of peach tulle and carried a golden basket of yellow chrysanthemums.

The groom was attended by Prof. David Laird, of the University of British Columbia. The church was beautifully decorated by the Girls' Auxiliary of St. John's Church, of which the bride was a member. The service was fully choral. During the signing of the register an organ solo was beautifully rendered by Mr. G. Jennings Burnell. The happy couple left on the midnight boat for Banff, en route to Ottawa, where they will reside, the bride traveling in a dress of grey floral georgette and fur wrap, the gift of the groom.

The gifts to the bride and groom were platinum bars, and to the best man military brushes. The bride's gift to the groom was a silver cigarette case.

KUMTUKS RESUME SUPPER MEETINGS

Report of Tillium Girl Guides Heard—Brief Address on Pottery by Mrs. Grute

A well attended supper meeting of the Kumtuka Club was held on Monday evening at the Y.W.C.A. with Miss Wigley presiding. In a comprehensive report Miss Eastman outlined the activities of the Tillium Company of Girl Guides since its formation, with particular reference to the events in which members of the Kumtuka Club have been able to participate. As the Girl Guides are special protégés of the club their plans for the coming winter were heard with keen interest. Miss Thornley bespoke the co-operation of individual members for the Victorian Order of Nurses by the purchase of the year book of the order.

Tickets for "Pollyanna," which is being played all this week at the Coliseum in aid of the Solarium fund, having been distributed for sale amongst the Kumtukians, the president requested that the proceeds from these tickets be turned in to her not later than Friday.

Mrs. Grute, the speaker of the evening, in a delightful talk, traced the history of pottery making on Vancouver Island. It was through the efforts of Mr. John Kyle that a course in pottery was introduced at the Summer School four years ago. Since then this art had been included in the study course of the Victoria Night School, and each year was attracting many students. With clay obtainable in and around the city, the speaker hoped that pottery making would develop into an important industry. At present the lack of a commercial oven of adequate proportions was the chief drawback to its steady advancement. In this connection Mrs. Grute told how the famous Staffordshire pottery trade had grown from small beginnings in the year 1600, and the enthusiasts in those early days had surmounted similar difficulties to those confronting the Victoria pottery. For a practical demonstration of the work being done in the city, Mrs. Grute invited the club to attend the exhibition of the Island Arts and Crafts Association to be held during the last two weeks in October.

Success in sport is dependent on physical fitness. Whilst the regular use of ENO's is not in itself a guarantee of fitness, it nevertheless does assist very considerably, and many sportsmen find they are better able to withstand continued effort and fatigue by the occasional use of ENO's "Fruit Salt".

PREMIER OLIVER IS "POLLYANNA" PATRON

Members of I.O.D.E. Also Attend Performance at Coliseum Theatre in Aid of Salarium Funds

Pollyanna, the little "glad" girl, brought her message of happiness and gladness to the hearts of the audience at the Coliseum Theatre last evening.

The play, which is being given in aid of the Queen Alexandra Salarium for Crippled Children, was patronized last night by the Premier and members of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, who occupied one of the boxes on the main floor of the theatre.

Between the third and fourth acts, Mrs. Curtis Sampson, of the I.O.D.E., and a member of the Salarium committee, spoke a few words of thanks to the audience for their kind patronage and help towards the funds for which the play is being given this week.

Dr. C. Wace, honorary secretary of the Salarium committee, outlined some of the tremendous advantages of such an institution, speaking of the educational and technical facilities which will be afforded the little patients, and mentioning that already the number of crippled children reported in British Columbia had reached a total of one hundred and sixteen.

Children's Matinee
On Saturday there will be a special matinee with specially reduced prices for children, and it is hoped that there will be a bumper house, as no child should miss seeing the "glad" play, on Sunday evening the Navy League band will give a concert in aid of the Salarium, and there will be an added attraction in the appearance of Mrs. C. E. Wilson, Miss Eva Hart and Mr. H. J. Davis, each of whom will contribute to the programme. It is asked that children be not brought to this performance, as the seating capacity of the theatre is limited.

Excellent Cast
The cast of "Pollyanna" is an unusually brilliant one. Miss Marie McLaughlin, as the charming heroine, exercised a great appeal to her audience, her grace and naivete, her child-like fascination and perfect naturalness winning for her instant applause. She is supported by a most capable cast, including Eileen Allwood, as Mrs. Cheesey, Lorna Griffiths as Miss Carroll, Violet Taylor, as Mrs. Gregg, Ruth Hamilton, as Nancy, Miss Polly Harrington, as Catherine Melonagh, Jimmy Hendon, played by Ed. Hedmond; Jimmy Bean, played by Wanda Spencer and Jack Cassidy, "Nodum and Gomorrah" are two important members in a class by themselves and are known throughout the play as "The Menagerie."

The members of the Kunitika Club have been instrumental in selling a large number of tickets for "Pollyanna" this week.

NAVY LEAGUE BAND TO GIVE BENEFIT

Boy Musicians Will Give Programme, Assisted by Leading Soloists, at Coliseum Sunday Night

The sacred concert which the Navy League Juvenile Band is to give next Sunday evening at 8.30 o'clock at the Coliseum Theatre in aid of the Queen Alexandra Salarium fund will be the first which the young musicians will have given officially since their return from Vancouver with their recently won title of Prize Juvenile Band of British Columbia.

The band was given a sensational reception in Vancouver, and it is felt that they could not turn their talent to a better cause on their return to their home town than in the assisting of the fund which is building the salarium for the treatment of crippled children.

The Coliseum management has very generously offered the theatre for the occasion without charge, so that the entire collection taken on Sunday night will be turned over to the salarium fund.

In addition to the band members, some of Victoria's leading vocalists will assist on the programme, including Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, Miss Eva Hart and Mr. H. J. Davis, all of whom have kindly consented to assist with the recital. Mrs. Clifford Wain will preside at the piano and play the accompaniments.

Exhibition of Silver Antiques

September 27 to October 4

Authentic Beauty

Time is the test, and survival the proof, of beauty.

Changing tastes and passing years are ruthless in their judgments. Only rare beauty and inherent worth can place a thing beyond the criticism of passing generations and save it from their neglect.

When you purchase a piece of silver out of the reign of the first of the Georges, or an example of Old Sheffield plate, designed in the early days of that extraordinary craft, you become the possessor of authentic beauty. Time has had its final word to say, and has pronounced it excellent.

And that is why Antique Silver is so satisfying as an investment or a gift.

All this week Birks are holding an Exhibition of Antique Silver. Many of the articles on view are "museum" pieces, and this is the first time they have ever been displayed on this Continent.

You are specially invited to come in and see the fine old pieces now on view. Next week will be too late, for the Exhibition closes October 4th.

CANADIAN COLLIERIES WIN FROM SAPPERTON

Score Three to Nothing Victory in Opening of B.C. Interclub Football League at Cumberland

CUMBERLAND, Sept. 27.—The winter soccer season was officially opened here yesterday afternoon, when the Canadian Collieries team was at home to Sapperton, the game being a fixture in the new British Columbia Interclub Football League. The Collieries team found the going by no means easy and, although they won by the score of 3-0, it is not a fair indication of the trend of play.

Canadian Collieries went off to a flying start in yesterday's match and after ten minutes had elapsed "Puffy" Davis had notched the first counter. Sapperton settled down then to play a fine brand of ball, so that it was not until after twenty minutes of the second period had passed that "Tone" Plump scored the first goal. Five minutes later Jack Campbell, Sapperton left back, handled in the penalty area and Wally Brake made no mistake of the free shot. Shiles had no chance to save.

Another Penalty

Five minutes before full time Campbell again gave away a penalty when he attempted to trip Davis. Cont took the kick but not wishing to score, dribbled the ball slowly to Shiles, who, however, completely mislaid. Referee Jones had not blown his whistle, however, and ordered the kick to be retaken. This time Cont drove the ball straight for the corner flag. The game ended shortly afterwards with the score 3-0 for Canadian Collieries.

Sapperton-Shiles: Digger, Campbell; Bradford, Coles, Bradshaw; (Girvan, Doyle, Wilkinson, McLeod, Albury.

Canadian Collieries: Orr; Hitchens, Stewart; Monaghan, Conti, Brake, Hallinan, Heaps, Davis, Plump, F. Strange.

Referee—A. S. Jones, of Union Bay.

Newmarket Meeting Will Conclude Flat Racing

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The last phase of the English flat racing season of 1926 is ushered in by the Newmarket meeting opening today. Between now and the end of next month almost a dozen great races will be run, including the Cesarewitch and the Cambridgeshire, the famous "Newmarket double." The first of these great autumn handicaps will be run at headquarters October 13 and the Cambridgeshire on October 27. Both are almost ninety years old.

Of immediate interest are the great races to be decided at Newmarket this week. Tomorrow the Newmarket Handicap will be run over the mile and a half course, and on Thursday the Jockey Club Stakes, mile and three-quarters. The Puss Monument Stakes, one of the great races for two-year-olds, is the feature on Friday.

Lacrosse Is Finally Placed on Programme Of Sports at Olympic

TORONTO, Sept. 28.—The Mail and Empire, in its sporting column, says: "After a battle extending some years, Mr. J. Miquelen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee, was in a position last night to state that lacrosse would be on the 1928 sports programme at Amsterdam."

"Each country holding the Olympic sports is allowed to put on two demonstration sports, one to be nominated by the country holding the meet, and the other by the international Olympic committee. Evidently lacrosse had been the sport nominated by Holland for, in the letter received by Mr. G. Van Rossum, general secretary of the Dutch Olympic Committee, he suggests that the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association take the matter in hand, and in addition to naming their own team, select their opponents from another country."

Tommy Gibbons Is After Fight With Gene Tunney

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 28.—Another bout with Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion, is desired by Tommy Gibbons, of St. Paul. Gibbons returned last night to St. Paul from Philadelphia, where he saw Jack Dempsey lose his heavyweight crown to Tunney. Tunney was the only boxer to ever knock out Gibbons, and Tommy said he is anxious to meet Gene in the ring again.

DEMPSEY HAS NO ALIBIS TO OFFER

WAS NOT SICK WHEN HE ENTERED THE RING TO MEET TUNNEY

Declares He Lost to a Better Man—Has No Announcement to Make Regarding Future

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—"I was sick after the fight but not before. I don't want sympathy and I have no alibi," Jack Dempsey said tonight on arriving in New York from Atlantic City. The former champion was replying to a query if he was sick when he lost his title to Gene Tunney last Thursday night.

Announcing that he had no plans for the future and could not say if he would box again, the deposed king proceeded to justify the characterization "kane sportman" applied by Gene Tunney in speaking of the man from whom he wrested the title.

"No, the ring was no handicap. The only handicap I had, was myself. I lost to a better man and that's all there is to it," Dempsey added as he explained he will remain in New York a month. "As I did not have enough trouble," the former champion laughed, "I have the itch now." He described it as a slight but uncomfortable skin irritation. "It's not the seven-year variety," he said. It was contracted during his training for the championship bout.

Lieutenant Wilkinson Wins Confederation Cup

Cadet Lieutenant P. Wilkinson, of the 12th Victoria High School Cadet Battalion, won the Confederation Life Association Cadet Challenge Cup for the best ten highest scores of the year on open ranges, with a score of 907 out of a possible 1050. Wilkinson will hold the trophy for a year and receive a miniature cup.

With the Bowlers

The mixed doubles competition, which has been creating so much interest among the afternoon bowlers at the Beacon Hill Park greens, was staged on Monday afternoon. Twelve enthusiastic pairs took the field in the contest, which was intended to be played on the knockout plan, but which, owing to the break in the weather, was decided in a twenty-one-end game, the team with the highest number of points over their opponents taking the honors of the day.

The ladies were elected skips for the game and were quite at home in giving directions to their male partners, each of whom, strove valiantly to win the favor of his fair companion. Some splendid play was witnessed and many of the men were taxed to keep up their end. While several of the matches were rather one-sided, others were keenly contested and won by narrow margins.

When the score cards were examined it was found that Mrs. H. M. Wright and Mr. Joe Sutton were equal in high points with Mrs. A. W. R. Jones and Mr. J. P. Owens. A few extra ends were played to decide the destination of the prizes and Mrs. Jones and Mr. Owens secured first place. Handsome and valuable prizes for the winners and runners-up were donated by Mr. "Wuille" Little, one of the club's most enthusiastic and popular members.

Teams Are Getting Into Shape for World's Series

Confidence of Victory Reigns in Each Camp—Weather Conditions Depend a Great Deal on Choice of Pitcher for First Game

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The New York Yankees, monarchs of the American League for 1925, and the St. Louis Cardinals, standard-bearers in the National League for the first time in baseball history, are grooming themselves today for the first world series conflict in the Yank Stadium, Saturday.

The Yanks returned to New York last night from the final tour of the West.

Most of the Cardinals regulars have been resting since the games with the Giants and Brooklyn, the latter part of last week.

Absolute confidence in their ability to turn back the Cards showed in the Yank's high spirits and playful manner.

No less confident are the Redbirds of St. Louis who are working out for the first time on the Yank field today. The Cards are certain they can defeat New York in the coming series.

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cardinals, grooming his pitching staff today, had no idea who would pitch in the first game.

Weather Delays Selection

Cold weather is expected to enhance the chances of Jess Haines and Grover Cleveland Alexander, star twirlers of the Philadelphia Nationals were world series contestants, getting the mound call. Fling them, are of the staff, and Canny Bill Sherdel, veteran southpaw, work best under a warm sun.

The weather also is postponing Miller Huggins' announcement of the Yank pitching choice for the first game, for the entire staff is in fine fettle, including the regular pitchers.

The optimism of the players has spread to the midge manager.

"We are confident we are going to win," Huggins said last night. "he said, 'along with the rest of the boys. We are all hitting, ton.'"

Cards Show Slight Superiority

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Offensively, the infielders of the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League, show a slight superiority over the New York Yankees, coming to bat in behalf of the American League in the approaching world series.

The four regular infielders of the Cards have a batting average of .292 against .274 for the same number of players likely to perform for the Yanks. Base-running activities are not impressive, but the St. Louis maintain their slight edge here also.

Rain Keeps World's Series Teams Idle; May Use Southpaws

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Rain and cold weather kept the world's baseball championship contenders, the Yankees and the Cardinals, idle today, but the rival field marshals, Miller Huggins and Rogers Hornsby, improved the interval by an intensive study of tactics and strategy.

The chief result of this "master minding" is the prospect that the opening game of the world series Saturday will develop a battle of left-handers, probably between Herb Pennock, the willowy pitcher of the Yankees and Willie Sherdel, of the St. Louis clan.

with a total of thirty-seven to twenty-nine.

Lou Gehrig, first base of New York, with a batting average of .311, tops Jim Bottomley, of St. Louis, who has .297. Gehrig has been more successful in hitting for extra bases than the guardian of the first door for the Cards, with 46 doubles, 20 triples and 14 homers. Bottomley has hit for the circuit 19 times, but is behind in doubles and triples, his total being 28 and 13. The stolen base performances of the first sackers are nothing to grow excited about, but Gehrig leads, six to four.

Hornsby Leads Lazzeri

Manager Hornsby, even though below his usual form, has outbitten Tony Lazzeri, but the Yanks second-sacker has been much more successful in making triples and homers. With a batting average of .318 compared to .279 for Lazzeri, Hornsby has made five triples and eleven homers. Lazzeri drove out 35 doubles to 27 for Lazzeri. And they were all even in stolen bases with ten.

Lester Bell, St. Louis third baseman, has a better record than that of Joe Duggan, of New York. On paper Bell is the best hitter in either infield. His average is .329. Duggan has hit .284. Bell, however, has made 36 doubles, 14 triples and 17 homers, while Duggan has made 28 doubles, five triples and one homerun. Bell has stolen two bases the same as Luggan.

Rival Shortstops

Mark Koenig, of the Yankees, and Tom Thynow, the opposing shortstop, are among the leading hitters. The former tops Thynow .249 to .255. The advantage also extends along the line of extra base hitting. Koenig leads in doubles 28 to 13; in triples 8 to 5, and in homeruns 6 to 2. Thynow is the better base runner, seven to four.

George Toporcer will probably have a chance to look over the tops of his "specs" for an infield position for the Cards during the series. He has outbitten Mike Gasella, who has the first call as a Yank field substitute, .246 to .232. No experienced whatever, has been caused by the base running of this skilful but weakish pair. Toporcer has stolen one base and Gasella two. Neither has made any impression on the homerun record.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—President Ben Johnson, of the American League, today announced that Tommy Connolly and Gene Hildebrand had been appointed American League umpires in the world series, with Clarence Rowland as substitute.

Ottawa Refuses to Free Cook Brothers

Announcement in Reply to Colonel Hammond States They Will Stay Where They Are

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—Following the National Hockey League meeting in Montreal on Saturday, Colonel J. R. Hammond, president, and Connie Smythe, manager and coach of the Brooklyn Rangers, came on to Ottawa and spent today here. The purpose of their visit was to sound out the possibility of having the Ottawa Hockey Association officials waive the contracts now held by the local club on the services of "Bill" and "Bunny" Cook, former stars of the Saskatoon Sheiks, whose contracts were bought earlier in the season for $15,000. Interviewed last night, the Ottawa club declined the proposal. An official of the Ottawa club gave out the following statement as constituting the reply made to Colonel Hammond following a refusal of the proposition to free the Cooks.

"After the Cooks report to us we will offer to sell to the Brooklyn Rangers what we consider to be equal playing strength for exactly what the Cooks cost us because we are in sympathy with the idea that the Rangers should have a strong team. If the Rangers do not take advantage of Ottawa's offer within a reasonable period, we will still insist that the Cooks report and play here, and the Brooklyn club need not look to us for playing strength."

Foley and Myreault Meet in Finals at Montreal Tonight

MONTREAL, Sept. 28.—Foley, Vancouver, and Silvio Myreault, of Montreal, will battle here tomorrow night in the final of the elimination tournament for the right to challenge Leo (Kid) Roy for the featherweight championship of Canada. ## CAPTAIN HOLLAND IS NEW PRESIDENT

RIFLEMEN CHOOSE POPULAR OFFICER AS HEAD AT ANNUAL MEETING

C.Q.M.S. Fyvie Is Re-elected Secretary—Association Experienced Successful Season

Captain G. C. Holland, of the 16th Canadian Scottish Regiment, was elected president of the Victoria and District Military Rifle Association at a largely attended annual meeting held last night in the Armories. C.Q.M.S. Fyvie was the unanimous choice as secretary-treasurer, Major Lettice, of the 5th B.C. Regiment, C.G.A., was chosen vice-president.

Reports from the secretary-treasurer showed the association had experienced one of the most successful seasons in its history and to be in good financial standing. In his report the secretary stated as follows:

"When the organization was first formed in September, 1925, a certain amount of doubt was felt regarding the practicability of welding all the various units together under one common head, without causing a good deal of friction, but I think your executive council has amply demonstrated that such a scheme was not only possible, but very necessary."

Best Season Since War

"The outdoor shooting programme was carried through, not only without friction, but with more success than any season since the war, the peak of attendance being reached on May 1, when a total of 101 were in attendance. A great deal of credit for the successful working of the association is due to Brigadier-General Ross, C.O.C., M.B. No. 11, and the officers under his command, with whom your executive came in touch regarding the various requests that had to be referred to them."

"I would also recommend to the incoming council that they try to arrange a system of inter-regimental shooting during the coming outdoor season, whereby different systems of coaching could be tried out, because it seems to me that it is only by so doing, that we can hope to retain the very high place in rifle shooting in Canada that we now hold, and it is possible for us even to improve that standing."

Simmons Re-elected

Lieutenant-Colonel Simmons was re-elected as assistant secretary and his useful work in the past was commented upon. The executive council will consist of Major Fred Richardson, O.B.E., S.M.E. Darling, Captain Wheaton and H.Q.M.S. Bowden. The finance committee elected is as follows: Colonel J. C. Harris, Captain A. G. Bolton and Captain W. A. Tapley.

RUTH IS 12 SHORT OF HIS 1921 MARK

Three Home Runs on Saturday Big Help in Boosting Season's Score—Wilson Leads in National

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Habe Ruth's slugging spree in the Yankees' pennant-clinching games brought his four-base hit list to forty-seven for the season, but left him twelve short of his 1921 record. During the four preceding weeks the champion of swat had added a meager home run a week to his season's total, but a homer on Tuesday and three more on Saturday last week made his 1925 record more impressive.

Bottomley, of the St. Louis Cardinals, moved within two of the National League leader, Mark Wilson, of the Chicago Cubs, with one circuit smash last week. He has 19. Wilson, out of form because of an injury, failed to add to his list.

Next to the Babe

Simmons, of Philadelphia, with nineteen home runs for the season, still was second among the American League heavy hitters, although he failed to increase his total during the week.

Gehrig, a teammate of Ruth, hit two home runs, making his total sixteen, and Lazzeri, with another one, also helped to mount the Yankees' and his own home-run record.

Nineteen circuit clouts were registered in the National League while 21 were chalked up in the American League loop during the week.

American League—Ruth, New York, 47; Simmons, Philadelphia, 19; Lazzeri, New York, 18; Williams, St. Louis, 17; Glavine, Washington, 16; Gehrig, New York, 14; Manush, Detroit, 14; Meusel, New York, 12.

National League—L. Wilson, Chicago, 21; Bottomley, New York, 19; Williams, Philadelphia, 18; J. Bell, St. Louis, 17; Southworth, St. Louis, 16; Kelly, New York, 13.

THREE OUTSTANDING RIVALS ELIMINATED

Maureen O'Connell, Mrs. Campbell and Virginia Van Wie Defeated in Women's Golf

HAVERFORD, Pa., Sept. 28.—Three outstanding rivals for the women's golf crown of the Glenna Collett were eliminated today in a series of sensational first round upsets, which spared the champion herself only after an exciting uphill battle. While the titleholder was being carried to the home, green, Merion course through a drenching downpour to win over Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, 2 up, Maureen O'Connell, metropolitan champion, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, victor in the national event of 1924, and Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, who defeated Miss Collett earlier in the season, were meeting unexpected defeat.

Miss O'Connell's Putting Poor
Miss O'Connell, failing to bring her putter under command on the wet greens, averaged 10. Mrs. Lee Mida, of Chicago, 4 and 3.

Excellent recovery shots from soggy traps carried Mrs. J. R. Caswell, Aurora, Ill., to victory over Mrs. Hurd, 2 and 1, while Miss Van Wie went down before the consistently good golf of Mrs. Norman Torres, of Glen Cove, N. Y., who brought off a smooth incoming card of 38.

Miss O'Connell, Mrs. Hurd and Miss Van Wie follow Louise Fordyce, Marion Turpin and Mrs. Dorothy Fardus, who failed to qualify yesterday, and thus Miss Collett tonight found removed from her path six contenders who looked formidable before the quest of the title was begun.

Michel is now awaiting the money to pay for his transportation.

Joins Hole-in-One Club

W. Dick, of the Uplands Golf Club, added his name to the membership of the Hole-in-One Club, on Monday, when he sank his tee shot on the sixteenth hole, a distance of 100 yards, while playing with H. G. Wilson. Mr. Dick is the eighth member of the club to register a hole-in-one this year.

BOWLERS LOOK FOR SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Annual Meeting Is Well Attended—Harry Buckle Is Elected President—Many Entries Received

The large gathering of bowlers who attended the annual meeting of the City and Commercial Bowling Leagues, held last night in the Pemberton Alley, speaks well for a successful season for the major smash-ups. Last year the leagues enjoyed a banner season, but early indications this season point to a still greater success.

Harry Buckle, well known in local bowling circles, was the choice for president, while W. Fairall, another old-timer, was elected to the position of vice-president. Frank Moore was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Harry Maynard was elected honorary president, and J. L. Tait, hon. vice-president.

In the City League six entries have been filed, namely: Eagles, Trovers, Colonist, Wilcox Hall, Arcades and Elks. An invitation has been extended to James Island to enter a team in this league.

Commercial League Is Strong
In the Commercial League it is expected that the entries will total close on to twelve. Entries to date are: Crusaders, Eagles, Colonist, Dominion Four, Trovers, Wilcox Hall, Radio. Other teams are yet to be heard from.

The next meeting is called for Tuesday, October 5, when rules governing the Winter's schedule will be drawn up. Teams wishing to enter the Commercial League are urged to attend this meeting in order to perfect this organization.

BIG-MILEAGE IS MADE IN MOTORCYCLE TEST

Average of 150.4 Miles to a Gallon Is Made on New Harley-Davidson Machine in Derby

Surprising mileage was covered here in the International Newspapermen's Derby held on Monday on the new single-cylinder Harley-Davidson motorcycle. Archie Wilby, of the Times, averaged 150.4 miles on a gallon, while Bob Milne, of the Colonist, was a few miles under this average. The manufacturers of the new machine guarantee a mileage of nearly 100 miles on a gallon of gasoline, but they hit upon the idea of having newspapermen's derby in an effort to see just how far a machine would go under ordinary guidance and not in the hands of experts.

Police Commissioner Walter Stansland, and Sgt. Bond, of the Provincial Police, witnessed the filling and sealing of the gasoline tanks of the two local machines which were in the contest. The start was at the Cloverdale School on Quadra Street. At 3 o'clock the two riders left. They were instructed to proceed to Sidney, U.C., and come back on the same road, the prevailing opinion being that they would run out of gas about Elk Lake on the way home.

The machine ridden by Wilby not only made the trip to Sidney and return to the starting point, but turned back over the road nearly to Hamlet, U.C., before the tank was empty. By official speedometer was 37.6 miles on a quart, which works out at an average of 150.4 miles a gallon. Milne ran out of gasoline several miles in rear of the other rider.

Dick Shanks and his son, Reg, were in charge of the event.

Work on Fish Ladder At Prospect Lake To Be Started Next Week

Fishermen will no doubt be pleased to learn that the fish ladder at Prospect Lake, which has been under discussion for several years, will be started next week. Those in charge have completed plans for the construction, and work will be rushed in order to give the fish a chance to get up from the area, as soon as the heavy rains set in.

"Beau Geste"

A Great Mystery Story

By PERCIVAL CHRISTOPHER WREN

Suddenly the spell was broken and back we came to earth at an old familiar sound.

A rifle cracked again and again. From the sound the firing was toward us.

The Arabs were upon us! Far to the right and to the left more shots were fired.

The fort blaring and the Arabs upon us!

Bullets whistled overhead and I saw one or two flashes from a distant sand-hill.

No one was hit, the fort being between us and the enemy. In less time that it takes to tell I had the men turned about and making for the oasis—au pas gymnastique—"the double," as you call it.

There we should have cover and water, and if we could only hold the devil until they were nearly beaten on and St. Andre's Senegalese, we would avenge the garrison of that blazing fort.

They are grand soldiers, those Legionnaires, George. No better troops in our army. They are to other infantry what my Spahis are to other cavalry. It warmed one's heart to see them double steady as on parade, back to the darkness of the oasis, every man select his cover and go to ground, his rifle loaded and leveled as he did so.

Our came on—despite rode in soon after. Two of them had a desperate fight, and two of them had seen rifle flashes and fired at them before returning to the oasis, thinking the Arabs had rushed the fort and burnt it.

In a few minutes from the first burst of fire the whole place was still, silent, and apparently deserted. Nothing for an enemy to see but a burning fort and a black brooding oasis, where nothing moved.

How I hoped they would swarm yelling round the fort, thinking to get us like bolted rabbits as we rushed out of it! It is not like the Arabs to make a night attack, but I was not to be deceived.

What were they doing now? The firing had ceased entirely. Probably making their dispositions to rush us in the morning if they had not seen us, anything might happen, and the oasis prove a quiet-appears, with the burning or burnt-out fort as the bait of the trap.

BISHOP SAYS CHURCH NOT DEBT-COLLECTOR

Objection Taken at Social Service Council to Clause in Immigration Agreement

WINNIPEG, Sept. 28.—A heated debate over an agreement with the Canadian Government regarding the bringing of immigrants to Canada was precipitated at the annual meeting of the council of social service of the Church of England in Canada.

The Bishop of Montreal told the council that an "absolute abomination" had been committed in "making the church of God a collector of debts for any government."

The debate arose over the following clause in an agreement with the Dominion Government, signed by Canon G. W. Vernon, general secretary of the council, on behalf of the church: "The church undertakes to collect and refund to the Dominion all sums loaned to immigrants under provisions of Clause 4 of this agreement."

Explanation
Canon Vernon explained that the clause was applicable only in the case of migrants recommended for loans by the church's agents. The Bishop of Ontario said he could not see anything wrong in the church assuming responsibility for debts recommended by itself.

It was finally decided to stand the clause in the agreement until the agreement lapsed. The council adopted a motion of reorganization of the executive to include representation from all the provinces after it had been pointed out that the Bishop of Saskatchewan was the only Western representative on the executive.

Vegetable Life Secrets Bared in Tissue Study

Plant's Wounds Require Same Aseptic Precautions as Wounds of Human Beings—Tomatoes on Branches, Potatoes on Roots of Same Plant

One of the oldest arts in the world is that of grafting one plant onto another. Its origin may be even prehistoric. At the least it has been known for many centuries, both in the European world and in China. For generations fruit trees have been made to bear fruit true to variety, grape vines have been grown in regions unfavorable to them and many other agricultural marvels have been accomplished by plant grafting. One of the first things that the young farmer has to learn is how to make the tiny cut in a tree into which he inserts the bud that is to become a graft and how to cover up this wound with grafting wax so that both the host plant and the new bud which is to live with it thereafter will survive the shock of the operation and will do well.

Nevertheless, in spite of the familiarity and age of this procedure, it has remained one of the things that botanical science knows little about. Just what happens when a graft "takes" or refuses to "take" is still a good deal of a mystery. Plant surgery is older than human surgery, but much less is known about it.

Unexpected Has Happened
During the last four years, however, Professor Lucien Daniel, of the University of Rennes, in France, has begun to repair this lack. Undertaking to perfect himself as a plant surgeon, able to manipulate the living tissues of plants as successfully as the real surgeons manipulate the parts of the human body, Professor Daniel has finished by doing things which animal operators cannot accomplish at all. Not content with the usual procedure of grafting two plants of the same species together, he has grafted potato plants on tomato plants, cress on cabbages, sunflowers on the roots of artichokes and a dozen other unexpected combinations.

The results are not mere monstrosities, useful only as museum specimens. On the contrary, much has already been learned concerning the nature of plant tissues and the things that make plants come true to type or the reverse. The practical technique of making grafts between one plant and another has been improved. Most promising of all, Professor Daniel believes that he will be able, by the use of such grafted vegetables, to modify certain vegetable varieties so that they will be harder or otherwise more useful. This, it must be admitted, is still a hope rather than a fact. Only time will prove whether the professor is right about these particular practical values. The interest value for botanical theory already is evident.

How Trees Grow in Thickness
In the usual grafts of one kind of tree to another what is done is quite simple. Underneath the bark of every tree or other woody plant there is a thin layer of tissue which is alive and growing. During the growing season of each year this living layer thickens a little, pushing the bark outward and depositing a little more wood against the core of the tree. That is how trees grow in thickness.

When a graft is to be made the problem is to attach the new branch or bud or other living part to the living layer of the tree in which the graft is to be placed. The procedure is essentially surgical. A cut is made in the bark, exposing the living layer. The graft which is to be inserted is freshly cut from the desired kind of tree and it, too, is trimmed down to the living layer. Then this trimmed piece is inserted into the other cut, so that the two bits of living tissue are closely in contact. There it is left, being covered, usually, with grafting wax or some other material which serves, in fact, exactly the same purpose as the aseptic dressing which a surgeon puts on a wound in the human body.

The curious thing in the case of plants is that the grafted piece lives and grows as though it were planted in the soil all by itself, not as though it were a part of the plant into which it has been grafted. Suppose, for example, that a bit of an apple tree, producing fine, sweet apples, is grafted into a tree, the fruit of which is small and sour. The grafted branch will live and grow like a part of the whole tree, but it will produce its own luscious apples, not the smaller and less desirable apples which the ungrafted branches will continue to bear.

This is just why grafting has been so useful in fruit growing. There are many varieties of fruit which do not breed true from seed. You have, let us say, a variety of plum which you especially like. You plant the seeds of some of these plums; they sprout and little plum trees come up. Will these bear plums like those which the parent tree bore and like the ones from which you took the seeds that you planted? Not necessarily. The new plums may be totally different from the old ones. The tree does not repeat itself by its seed.

May Get Desired Kind
But the kind of plum that you like can be obtained by grafting. Plant any kind of a plum tree one of the seedlings from the same tree, if you like. Let it grow a while and establish a sturdy root. Then graft into this new root a piece of the original tree. The grafted branch will grow. You can cut off all the original branches, if you wish, and make the new tree consist entirely, so far as its branches are concerned, of the grafted stock. This will produce the kind of fruit you desire. But the root will be different. Root and branches are really different trees, producing different kinds of fruit, and continuing, it must be imagined, of different kinds of living tissue.

Another important use of grafting is in providing roots that have some desirable quality. Roma years ago the vineyards of California, where some of the finest of American grapes are grown, began to suffer severely from an insect pest known as phylloxera. These insects live in the soil and attack the roots of the grape vine. Many of the vines were killed. Others were damaged so severely that the fruit was meagre and of poor quality.

There exist, however, certain varieties of grape vine which the phylloxera insects will not attack. Unfortunately, however, these resistant vines do not produce very good grapes. Some of the fine, large grapes, highly prized for eating purposes, do not grow on the resistant roots. And these good grapes will not grow on their own roots in a country infested with the insect. The California vineyardists solved the problem by grafting. Roots of the resistant kinds of grape were planted in the vineyards and allowed to grow until they were well established. The insects left them alone.

Then shoots of the desired varieties of grapes were grafted into these roots. The shoots produced their kind of grape. The roots kept off the phylloxera. Everybody was happy, except possibly the phylloxera.

Of the Same Kind
In all such instances the two kinds of plant tissue that are made to grow together are essentially of the same kind. Although varieties of plum tree or of grape vine may differ in the exact kinds of fruit that they bear, they remain, nonetheless, very similar to each other. The living cells of two different varieties of grape vine are presumably much alike and quite able to get along comfortably together in the hybrid plant produced by the graft.

It is somewhat otherwise with the grafts accomplished by Professor Daniel. That, indeed, is what gives this work its unusual interest and suggestiveness. The tomato and potato, for example, are quite dissimilar plants. It is true that they belong to the same botanical family, that of the Solanaceae. They are less different from each other than either of them would be from, say, a pine tree. Nevertheless, they are far less alike than are the two varieties of grapes, or the two kinds of plums, or other fruit varieties which agriculturists have been accustomed to join by grafting.

Still wider differences exist between some of the other kinds of plants which Professor Daniel has been able to join successfully by his grafts. One, for example, is a variety of sage grafted onto a daisy.

The technique appears to be almost identical with that of surgery on human beings. What is necessary in producing these unusual plant grafts is twofold. First, the wound made by the operation must be protected against germ infection, just as the wound must be in animal surgery. Second, the plant must be nursed and protected during its period of convalescence, almost exactly as human patients need to be.

Sensitive to Germs

Plants are scarcely less sensitive to germs than we are. I assisted some years ago at a surgical operation on a pumpkin. In connection with a scientific experiment on certain plant phenomena it was necessary to open the pumpkin, insert some articles into its central cavity and have it "heal" again, as the human body will do under similar circumstances. The surgical technique employed was similar. The "patient" was anaesthetized with an anesthetic, as is done for human surgery. Knives and implements were sterilized. Precautions were taken against germs in the air. The "surgeon" even wore a mask over his face, as real surgeons do, so that no germs from the breath would accidentally enter the wound.

The precautions were successful. The pumpkin "recovered." The wound healed, much as an animal wound does, by "first intention." Had the precautions been neglected it is reasonably certain that the pumpkin would have rotted and died. The rotting of a fruit or vegetable that has been injured to exactly the same thing as the supuration of a human wound. In both instances it means that germs have entered the wound and are making trouble.

These precautions are very important in Professor Daniel's hybrid grafts. If you merely stick a bit of tomato bush into a cut in the stem of a potato plant and then let the plant alone it will do exactly what a human patient would do if surgeons operated in a similar manner. It will sicken and die. But if you treat the tomato-potato twin which you have created as you would treat a human invalid, it has an excellent chance to recover and to astonish your friends by growing tomatoes on its branches and potatoes on its roots, something which a number of Professor Daniel's plants have actually done.

TWO THOUSAND ENTRIES RECEIVED

NORTH AND SOUTH SAANICH DISPLAY WILL MEASURE UP TO PREDECESSORS

Poultry and Rabbits Are Strong Features—Marked Improvement in Livestock Shown

SAANICHTON, Sept. 28.—The fifty-eighth annual fall fair held by the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society in the Agricultural Hall, Saanichton, today, far surpasses any held by the society, over 2,000 entries being received.

In spite of the dry season experienced throughout the Saanich peninsula during the last year, the exhibits are of excellent quality and the number of entries in each class show them to be closely contested.

The fruit and vegetable sections have a very fine display, some very fine grapes being shown which were grown at Royal Oak. The apples also equal any from the Okanagan Valley.

The field crops show excellent quality and size.

The entries of the Indian Department, while not as large as last year, show the quality of the exhibits as splendid.

In the school children's work the entries are very well done, some very fine exhibitions of drawing and penmanship being shown.

The domestic science class has a large number of exhibits, the judges having a very difficult task in awarding the prizes.

In the poultry section the breeders have sent in some fine birds. The rabbits entered in this year's show are nearly all prizewinners from other exhibitions, and are competing against each other.

The goat section is proving very popular.

There is a marked improvement shown in the section devoted to horses, cattle and sheep.

The Highland dancing is proving a great attraction this year, over eighty entries being received, fifteen coming from Vancouver. Mr. Donald Fraser will present the prizes in this event.

The Canadian Blue Fox Farms have a very fine showing of blue foxes, those being raised on Renard Island, twenty-five miles south of Powell River. The owners of the farm have 100 pens at Queen's.

In the unavoidable absence of the Lieutenant-Governor in the interior, the exhibition will be opened at 2 p.m. by the Premier.

Lunch and afternoon tea will be served in the dining-room by the members of the Ladies' Guild of St. Mary's and St. Stephen's churches. The West Saanich Women's Institute will also have a stand in the grounds for the sale of candy, soft drinks, etc.

During the afternoon the 16th Canadian Scottish Pipe Band will render selections.

As in the past the annual ball given by the society will be held in the Agricultural Hall on Friday, October 1, with Pitt's orchestra, dancing being from 9 until 2 a.m.

The judges for the various classes were: Fruit and vegetables, G. Clarke, F. Jones, Geo. Robinson; field crops, C. Tice, J. Mackie; poultry, T. C. Oldershaw; rabbits, J. Hickford; domestic science, Mrs. J. D. Gordon; goats, Mr. S. Jones; ladies' work, Mrs. Abbott; school work, Miss Scalan; eggs, Mr. W. Hagger.

Wilderness Will Be Transformed Into Smooth Campus Within the Year—Theological School to Have Splendid Position on U.B.C. Grounds

VANCOUVER, Sept. 28.—It is a far cry from a bracken-tangled, stump-covered wilderness to the quiet walls of a church college of Gothic lines, with sunlight spilling color across its arches through stained glass windows and a smooth green campus beyond its walls.

But just such a dream is coming true for the United Church in British Columbia, as day by day in Point Grey, the most beautiful district in Greater Vancouver, the work of clearing the acres, on the University of British Columbia reservation, allotted to the affiliated theological colleges, goes on.

Within the year the grey granite walls will take shape and the ground that is wilderness today will be level and smooth as green velvet.

Within sound of the sea and sight of the mountains, the first college of the United Church in Canada will be erected. The peninsula on which the university reservation is located, is bounded on three sides by the Gulf of Georgia, and the college will face a panorama of natural beauty that must serve as an inspiration to the students within its walls.

United College will be a merger of Westminster Hall (Presbyterian), Ryerson College (Methodist), and the Incorporated Congregational College of British Columbia.

Beaver Prices Show Increase at Auction

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Southern muskrat skins sold for a record price of $234, about $2 more than they would have brought a few years ago, at the opening of the eleventh annual fall auction of raw furs here yesterday. Sales for the day were $750,000. Beaver sold freely at prices averaging ten per cent above the Spring sale. Auctioneering of Northern Quebec, Ontario and Yukon beaver was lively, best northern Quebec reaching $36.25.

CANADA'S FUR TRADE GREATLY INCREASES

SAYS CANADIAN FARMERS ARE DEVOTING TIME TO RAISING OFF-SPRING OF BEARING ANIMALS

Mr. F. A. Thompson, of Vancouver, Speaks of Conditions in Fur Industry in Early Days

Mr. F. A. Thompson, of Vancouver, business manager of Canadian Fur Limited, who for the past twenty-five years has been in the livestock business, breeding and marketing stock of all kinds, and who is particularly interested in the development of the fur industry, declared last night in an interview that very few persons realize what an important position the fur industry of Canada has held since the early days up to the present time.

"In the early days, said Mr. Thompson, 'men of vision and courage, by encountering and overcoming almost insurmountable obstacles from a climatic and transportation standpoint, explored the vast hinterland of this country. During the time that the Indians and Eskimos inhabited this country it was inhabited by fur-bearing animals that furnished clothing and food for the Indians and later for the white men who had to depend upon their own efforts to maintain an existence.'

Mr. Thompson said the skins of the different animals were tanned and utilized for many purposes such as tents, canoes, clothing, shoes, and in the course of time pelts became the medium of exchange.

In speaking of the silver fox, which is probably the most valuable in existence, Mr. Thompson said that single pelts of this animal have been sold for small fortunes. The silver fox is classed as the "King of Furs" due to its popularity among buyers and for its outstanding beauty.

Blue fox raising, he said, particularly under Free Range Island conditions has become an important and lucrative branch of the fur industry. There is a staple demand for its pelts.

Mr. Thompson declared that civilization has driven the fur-bearing animals farther and farther into the northern wilds, but the advanced methods of capture and domestication of animals trapped alive has resulted in establishing the fur industry on a more sound and extensive basis. A number of farms, he said, have devoted their time to the raising of fur-bearing animals in the Dominion of Canada.

The company in which he is interested has two islands in Calm Channel, 100 miles northwest of Vancouver, to be used, the larger for blue foxes, the smaller for silver foxes. The offices of the company are 319 Standard Bank Bldg., Vancouver.

Smallest Railway Station in England

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Blackwell Mill, Derbyshire, disputes with stations on the Brainree line the claim to being the smallest station in England. Blackwell Mill, which is on the London, Midland & Scottish Railway, three miles from Buxton, has one platform twelve feet long, and not even a board bearing the name of the station.

It has one train a week, no tickets are issued, and no fares are charged. The station, situated amid hills, dales and deep limestone gorges, serves eight cottages, occupied by railway servants and their families, and every Friday morning an early train stops to take the women folk of this tiny hamlet to Buxton with their market baskets, and about noon they return with their week's supplies.

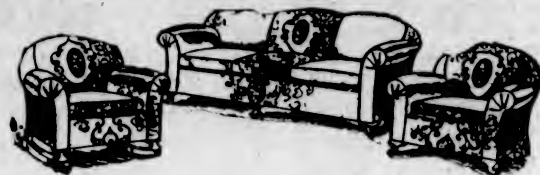

A narrow footbridge crosses the river, which runs close by, and the path to the station winds between the railwaymen's gardens, a considerable height above the bridge. Some of the women have lived at Blackwell Mill all their lives.

Trace "Reptile" Fund

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Five Liberty loan bonds with a value of $40,000 that formed a part of the $291,000 "commission" paid John T. ## DISCOVERY MADE OF DICKENS' FIRST WORK

Experts Believe Manuscript of First Literary Effort Genuine—May Be Presented to Museum

LONDON.—(By Mail)—Its existence unknown until twelve months ago, the original manuscript of the first literary effort of Charles Dickens has been found in this country.

Entitled "The Stratagem of Rozazza," with a subtitle "A Venetian Comedietta," the work which runs into 131 pages of close writing, was composed by Dickens when he was sixteen, and written out for him by his mother, then a schoolmistress in Camden Town.

The author signs it "C. J. H. Dickens," a reminder that his full name, which he never used later in life, was Charles John Huffam Dickens.

The manuscript is embellished with a number of full-page pen and ink drawings, signed "H. Knight."

Dickensian authorities have little doubt that the illustration was the subsequent "Phiz."

An American collector, G. E. Milne, of California, who is a Dickens expert, came into possession of the book whilst in Paris, and took it back with him to the United States.

Realizing that admirers of Dickens in England would treasure the volume, he recently entered into negotiations through a London bookseller, and an English collector has within the last few days purchased the manuscript.

It is probable that before long it will be presented to the museum of one of the British Dickensian societies.

Experts who have examined the document declare that there is not the slightest doubt that it was written in 1828, when Dickens was only sixteen years of age.

The watermark on the paper bears that date.

The plot of the play is concerned with the loves and adventures of a handful of cosmopolitan characters gathered together in an inn in Venice. The description of the place, however, very closely fits that of the famous amusement place in London of Dickens' boyhood, the Vauxhall Gardens.

$5,000,000 Deal in N.Y. Papers Framed

MILLIONS LOST BY DIAMOND PRODUCERS

International Criminals in Europe Engineer Smuggling—Stones Hidden in Flesh

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Thousands of dollars are lost annually by the diamond producers of South Africa owing to a European organization for illicit traffic in diamonds.

This traffic, which is highly organized and is controlled by a gang of international criminals in Europe, is becoming one of the chief problems of the mining companies today.

The traffic has become so extensive that Sir David Harris, president of the New Jagersfontein Mining Company, stated at the annual meeting of the company, in Kimberley, that vigilance must be redoubled. If the company were not to lose money in consequence of the cleverly-laid traps of the organization.

"During the existence of the industry," he stated, "many millions sterling have been lost in this way, and producers continue to suffer severely."

It is a penal offence for a workman to be found in possession of a diamond on the mining fields, but despite this diamonds are continually stolen from the mines.

"The illicit diamond buying organization," a London member of a large mining corporation said recently, "is ready to offer such bribes for diamond smuggling that natives have been known to cut a hole in their flesh and conceal the diamond within."

"The wound is broken open after leaving the mine and the diamond extracted."

OFFICERS OF BRANCH ARE RE-ELECTED

British-Israel Association of Victoria Holds Its Annual Meeting

The Victoria, British-Israel Association held its annual meeting on Monday evening in The Kings Hall, 571 Yates Street. The president, Mr. Blackaller, occupied the chair. There was a good attendance of the members. The report of the treasurer was presented, and being found satisfactory, was adopted.

The previous year's officers were re-elected, with the exception of Mrs. Altree (deceased), who has removed to Vancouver. Mrs. Drake and Mrs. Constable were appointed additional vice-presidents. Captain Clowes, press correspondent, and Mr. J. Macneil, assistant organizer.

It was noted there had been a steady increase of membership, and the association looked forward to the future.
